Jobs For a Year

* * * * *

Work For 250 and $428,000 Payroll Assured If School Bonds Pass.

Work for 250 men for at least a year—pay rates ranging from 50 cents an hour for unskilled labor to $1.25 for highly specialized technicians—a total of 475,776 man hours of work—a total payroll of $428,000, exclusive of the money paid for material, a large part of which will be bought from Mansfield firms, thus creating additional secondary payroll and providing more jobs.

Those are a few of the "rockbottom" facts to which school officials pointed today, as they pushed their campaign for approval of the $550,000 school bond issue at the special election Sept. 20.

The money raised by the bond issue, as has been said many times, will be added to a $450,000 PWA grant from the federal government (that money is already allocated) and a million-dollar program of new construction and remodeling will be undertaken, calling for two new buildings and modernization of all present buildings—if 65 per cent of the voters approve the bond issue on Sept. 20.

Last Aug. 8, 60 per cent of the school district's voters favored the program. That wasn't quite enough, since the measure required a 65 per cent vote for passage. Immediately, pressure was exerted to resubmit the question, and the special election on Sept. 20 is the result.

* * *

Point to Benefits for City.

Believing that popular sentiment favors modernizing Mansfield's school system, school officials today pointed to the benefits of the program on employment in the city—since most of the labor will come from Mansfield.

A total of 250 jobs for a period of a year—and carrying through the winter when many ordinarily employed in building trades are idle—is, they believe, a point that should be stressed. Equally important are the figures on wage rates, and the total man hours of employment the program will provide.

The federal government has ruled that if the bonds are passed, actual construction must be started by Oct. 31. That means a minimum of delay in getting the program under way. School officials are ready to start before that deadline.

The first work will be done in the elementary schools, where sanitary facilities — now actually shameful in some schools—will be modernized and where fire hazards will be removed. Dingy classrooms will be renovated and brightened.

Following that work, construction will be started on the new junior high school buildings—a brand new Johnny Appleseed Junior high at Cline and Sturges avenues, and a practically new John Simpson building on the present Simpson site, with a part of the present building being retained.

* * *

Project Will Take Year.

After that will come the addition at the Senior high school.

It will take a year to complete the undertaking—a year in which Mansfield labor will be kept steadily at work, in which Mansfield materials will be used and in which hundreds of thousands of dollars will find their way into the pockets of Mansfield workmen.

And at the conclusion of the year, Mansfield's 6,400 school children will have safe and modern buildings in which to obtain their education.

School officials report much favorable public sentiment for the bond issue—and point to the unusual number of registrations and transfers of voters at the board of elections. After the bond issue was defeated last month, it developed that hundreds of voters who favored the undertaking had neglected to register or transfer, and therefore were unable to vote for the project.

FRANCE ON WAR FOOTING

Urges Britain To Display War Preparedness, Showing Willingness To Fight.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—In a move that aroused keener speculation than anything else since the Czechoslovak crisis began, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain this afternoon called Anthony Eden to the foreign office to participate in feverish diplomatic discussion of the situation.

(By Associated Press)

Sharpening tempers in Germany and Czechoslovakia today widened the gulf over the Sudeten German issue which is troubling peace of Europe.

High Nazis, in defiant mood, predicted Adolf Hitler would demand—and get—a plebiscite for the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia whose demands for autonomy he backs.

In Prague, Czechoslovak Premier Milan Hodza was flooded with telegrams, many repeating the new slogan: "Not one millimeter farther!" in concessions to the Germanic minority.

Press for Warning.

Signs of growing public clamor in London for an unmistakable warning to Germany to take no step that might drag Europe into war weighed on British cabinet deliberations.

France pressed Britain to follow her example of war preparedness. One source said the reason was that British diplomacy had failed to convince Germany that Britain would fight if Czechoslovakia were invaded.

France, already on a virtual war footing, closely supervised traffic across the Rhine into Germany, notified naval reserve officers to

The complaint, filed by Local 1, 151 of the International Association of Machinists, an A. F. of L. unit, claimed the association was a "company union." Hearings were held in Galion July 1 to 6.

Delegates re-elected three officers and prepared to choose others this afternoon as the five-day conference passed the half-way mark. Officers re-elected were J. N. Funk, Akron, treasurer; E. P. Eberly, Cambridge, statistical secretary, and G. B. Wetherbee, recording secretary.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Four holdup men staged a daring $50,000 daylight jewel robbery on the fifth floor of a downtown office building here late yesterday and escaped into street crowds as police cars surrounded the place.

They walked into the Platinum Shop, Inc., manufacturing jewelers, while Mark Silverstein, 53, salesman for a New York City diamond firm was showing his wares to Louis Bassler, 58, president, and his son, Joseph, 34, vice president.

They took unset diamonds in Silverstein's jewel wallet and $175 from his pockets. Silverstein said the diamonds were worth $40,000 to $50,000.

WESTINGHOUSE PLANT STEPS UP OPERATIONS

2,000 Employes Get An Extra Day A Week As Four-Day Schedule's Adopted.

NEW IRON ORDER LANDED

N. Y. Firm Calls For 25,000 More, Helps Spur Activities Of Mansfield Division.

The Mansfield plant of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company this week increased operations to four days a week, and will continue to operate at that rate "as long as orders and general business warrants."

Announcement of the increase in operations was made by A. E. Allen, vice president of the merchandising division.

The increase means that 2,000 employes of the company now at work will be given an extra day a week, although at present conditions do not warrant employment of additional persons, the announcement said.

25 Per Cent Increase.

Amounting as it does, to a 25 per cent increase in work hours per week, announcement of the increase is one of the brightest pieces of business news Mansfield has heard in recent months.

One of the contributing factors was the placing of another order for 25,000 electric irons by Commonwealth Edison company of New York. This is the second order the company has placed and brings the total of irons it has taken to 50,000. Commonwealth Edison has been conducting an intensive merchandising campaign in New York.

Also contributing to the increase was a slight increase in general business, and the necessity for getting ready for Christmas business, officials said.

On 3 Days Since April.

The three-day week was instituted here last April, and orders have not necessitated an increase above that rate since then.

Commenting on the boost in operating rates, Allen said:

"We cannot guarantee to maintain this new schedule indefinitely, as it depends entirely on conditions in business generally and the electrical appliance business specifically. But we sincerely hope orders will hold up and that business in general will return to normalcy so we can get back to our normal operations in Mansfield. This increase enables us to go to a four-day week at the present and it is our hope that our new schedule will not only hold up but that it will get better."

McMillin, Nationally Known Mt. Gilead Industrialist, Dies

MT. GILEAD—Frank B. McMillin, 69, president of the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, died at his home Thursday afternoon following an illness of three years.

Mr. McMillin was a national figure in manufacturing circles. He was associated with the Hydraulic company since 1902 and served as assistant general manager and general manager until 1935 when he was elected president of the company.

The nationally known Mt. Gilead manufacturer served as president of the United States Chamber of Commerce in 1929 and 1930 and headed the Ohio chamber from 1924 to 1933.

Mr. McMillin held the presidency of the Hydraulic Machinery Manufacturers association of American from 1927 to 1929 and Manufacturerers Association of central Ohio in 1924 and 1925.

During the World war, he was chairman of the war savings committee of Morrow county, which led the nation in per capita sales two years. From 1911 to 1937,

2 BOYS STRUCK NEAR HOME WHILE MOTHER WATCHES

Pair Critically Injured by Auto When Boy, 6, Who Entered School Only Day Before, Greets Brother Arriving On Bus; Woman Driver Released.

A horrified mother yesterday afternoon stood in the doorway and saw her two sons struck by an automobile and critically injured as they left a school bus in front of their home on Millsborough road.

Lester Baker, 8, a fourth grade pupil at Woodland school, and his six-year-old brother, Paul, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Baker, Millsborough road, were hit by a car driven by Mrs. Walter F. Howell, 52, of 204 West Park drive, as it passed the standing bus.

Paul, who had attended his second day in the first grade at Woodland had been taken home by his mother at 2 p. m. He had gone to greet his brother who arrived on the bus. Both boys started across the road in front of the bus while their mother waited on the porch. They failed to see the approaching machine.

They were struck by Mrs. Howell's car, travelling in the same direction as the bus and carried 80 feet, before falling from the front of the car. After they had fallen to the ground, both were run over by the automobile.

While their father, who had been working in a nearby field, and their mother, cared for them, George Hissong, 10 Massa avenue, operator of the bus, drove to the Harry S. Black estate a half mile away and called an ambulance.

Both were rushed to the General hospital, where it was feared that Lester, the older of the two, may have suffered fatal injuries. He was the more seriously injured.

Hospital attendants reported that Lester suffered a skull fracture, and that Paul had a fractured pelvis and head injuries. They said their condition at noon today, while slightly improved, was only "fair."

Both were reported to be conscious at noon today.

Patrol Directs Probe.

Meanwhile Capt. John Miller in a police cruiser drove upon the scene and called the state highway patrol which has jurisdiction in all school bus accidents. The mishap occurred on the corporation line which runs down the center of Millsborough road.

State patrolmen after questioning Mrs. Howell released her to the custody of her husband, a teacher at the Ohio State reformatory.

Officers said, however, that a charge of manslaughter would be placed against heh in the event of the death of either of the boys.

The car, with a smashed radiator grill, was impounded in the

DRY SPELL TO HIT CORN YIELD

Cutting Of Fodder Moved Ahead By Drought; Dries On Stock Instead Of Ripening.

Dry weather during the past month has reduced Richland county's prospective bumper corn yield and moved corn cutting ahead several days, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

Corn cutting had been started in the southern part of the county today, and farmers said the fodder was so dry that much of it is being lost in the utting operation.

Corn dried on the stock rather than ripened and the blades are so brittle that they shatter before the fodder can be put in the shock, farmers said.

Due to an early planting season, the corn loss in the county will be less than in other sections of the middle west, Ganyard predicted.

While crops are too far advanced to receive any material benefit from rain now, farmers said a shower would aid them in their corn cutting by toughening the fodder and eliminating the heavy dust in fields.

QUIZZED AGAIN

Ex-Convict Says Night Club Hostess Wanted To Die.

CHICAGO—(AP)—An ex-convict was pressed today for additional details of the slaying of Mrs. Marie Lamont, night club hostess, after confessing he strangled her because "she begged me to kill her."

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle announced that William F. Raab, 38, a night club bouncer, admitted last night he throttled the woman in his hotel room.

The nude body of the 27-year-old victim was found on a bed in Raab's quarters at the Lorraine hotel Wednesday. Raab was in an alcoholic stupor when the police found him wading in a Garfield park lagoon yesterday.

SACK BANDIT?

"Hooded" Gunman Robs Columbus Gas Station Attendant.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—A "hooded" bandit appeared here today but police were uncertain whether he was the desperado who has been terrorizing northwestern Ohio gasoline stations for months, or just an imitator.

Robert Radaway, attendant at a gasoline station here, was held up and robbed of $15 early today by a man dressed in dark suit and hat, with a burlap sack drawn over his head.

GUNMEN POLITE

One Waits On Trade While Pal Holds Clerk Captive.

PORTLAND, Ore. —(AP)— Even robbers respect the old tradition that business must carry on.

While one bandit held Gordon Berg, grocery clerk, a prisoner in a back room of his store, another donned an apron and waited on the trade for 15 minutes.

Later the men fled with the cash.

The Law Says:

For the benefit of those motorists who may not know the provisions of the law governing passing of school buses, the general code of Ohio, Section 12604-1 says:

"The driver of a vehicle, when approaching the front or rear of a school bus that has come to a stop on a road or highway, outside the limits of a municipal corporation, while in the act of receiving or discharging school children, shall stop such vehicle not less than 10 feet from such school bus and keep such vehicle stationary until such children have entered said bus or have alighted and reached the nearest adjacent side of such road or highway."

The penalty is a maximum fine of $100 and a 30-day jail sentence.

CHAPTER 37

AT THE Garwood home the door was opened by Hichens, who greeted Noel with his usual stiff impassivity, and at once showed her to her room. It was on the third floor back, furnished in maple, with delicate lace curtains, a blue oval rug and several comfortable looking chairs. The room opened into a neat bath.

Here was luxury indeed, Noel thought, as she unpacked her few belongings. A few minutes after, she was ready to go down the short flight of stairs to the second floor where Hichens waited to show her to the room of the little girl who was to be in her charge.

The room which she now entered was large, furnished as a sitting room in heavy upholstered furniture. It opened into a small bedroom.

Sitting in a chair was a pale little girl with fair hair and blue eyes, who gazed at Noel without interest and then leaned back in her chair and closed her eyes listlessly.

* * *

Noel thought she had never seen a more unhappy looking child. Her sympathy was instantly aroused as it had been on the day when she had glimpsed this child from the upstairs window.

Hichens withdrew stiffly. Noel went over and took one of the child's pale little hands "Hello, Betsy, dear," she said softly.

The child murmured a word of greeting and again dropped her eyes, the long curling lashes making little hollows on her thin delicate face. Then she withdrew her hand from Noel's and turned her face away.

Noel took a seat beside her and waited a few moments, hoping the child would look at her again. Then at last Noel said, "Do you like to play games, Betsy?"

The little girl opened her eyes then, looking at Noel in surprise. "Oh, no!" she said with emphasis.

"But wouldn't you like to?" Noel insisted.

Betsy shook her head. "It would be noisy."

Noel felt at a disadvantage. After all, she knew nothing of children and would have to be guided by her instincts. If she had acted on her first impulse, she would have taken the frail little girl and held her close in her arms, for there was something about her pale face that went straight to the heart. But Noel felt that was probably not the best way, remembering how firmly Betsy had withdrawn her hand.

So Noel said lightly, "One can play lots of games without making noise." She wracked her brain to think of a game of this kind. And then said with triumph, "Checkers, for instance."

But Betsy's expression remained blank Was it possible she knew nothing of checkers? Had no one felt it their duty to amuse her? It seemed to Noel, even though she was ignorant of child psychology, that what this little creature needed most was to have her young mind stimulated. Listlessness in a child of this age was far from being natural.

Noel decided to try for another vantage point "Which of your studies do you like best?" she asked.

Noel had already noticed that there were no toys to be seen, not even a doll. If the child possessed any, they were evidently put away. In one corner of the room there was a small desk on which a number of books were piled. Noel went over, selected one, which happened to be an arithmetic. Then glancing up from the book, she saw a slight shudder come over Betsy's little body. Noel put the book down.

She saw a look of relief come into the child's eyes. "I can't do sums," she said, plaintively. "They make my head ache. I can't learn—anything," she finished, sudden tears gathering in her eyes.

"Here, this won't do," Noel said tenderly. The next thing she was following her first instinct and was holding the little girl in her arms "Of course you can learn," she told her soothingly.

* * *

Betsy seemed surprised and embarrassed. A flush came into her face, and she tried to pull away. Noel waited a few moments, then she released her. Lifting her in her strong young arms, she placed her back in the big over-stuffed chair and walked to the window She could see that she would have to use a world of tact with this child. She was evidently shy, even afraid of people for some reason. A passionate desire rose up in Noel's heart to help her. It was plain enough that Betsy was seriously neglected

After standing at the window thinking for a few moments, Noel decided not to attempt to use any text books She would give Betsy a test to find out how far she had gotten in arithmetic and make it appear more or less as a game.

She went to the door and called Hichens. When the butler appeared with surprising quickness, she asked him to bring her a dozen oranges, a basket of cherries and some apples.

Noel thought in such a house as this that the larder would be well filled. She was right. Hitchens had gone away, a look of disapproval on his face. But a few minutes later a Japanese servant came up with the fruit.

He was followed a short while afterward by Hichens who told Noel that Mrs. Garwood wished to see her at once in her boudoir. Except that Hichens pronounced it "boodoar."

When Noel knocked on Mrs. Garwood's door, and was told to come in, Hichens was there, adjusting the silk curtains. Mrs. Garwood evidently had just awakened. A silver breakfast tray rested on a small table beside the chaise lounge on which the woman was half-sitting, half-reclining, wearing as before an elaborate negligee of chiffon and lace. Her right arm was bound in tape and hung in a sling from her shoulder.

"I—er, broke my arm," Mrs. Garwood said rather abruptly.

"Oh, I'm sorry," Noel began, but the woman wasn't paying Noel any attention. She was looking at the butler. "Hichens, look in the—my desk and bring me my check book. I'm going to have—" she stopped and, turning to Noel, inquired, "What is your name? Can't remember."

Noel told her. "All right, Noel," she resumed, "I'm going to ask you to make out a check for me. Bills have to be paid even though I've got my right hand in a splint. Make it for a thousand."

Noel took the check book Hichens handed her, and wrote out a check for the amount of a thousand dollars. Then she was instructed to sign the name Fay Garwood. She looked up at the woman in surprise. "But my signature — I mean—will it be accepted?"

Mrs. Garwood gave a shrug and an angry light came into her protruding eyes. "I do not see why I've got to—why I should make explanations to my servants. Do as you're told."

Noel still hesitated. Hichens moved up and then said suavely, "You understand, of course that—er—Mrs. Garwood will phone the bank and explain why someone else made out the check."

Noel made no further objections. She signed the woman's name and rose. "Now as to Betsy," Mrs. Garwood began, "she is a very bad child. Stubborn. What she needs is discipline."

"Oh, no. Mrs. Garwood" Noel exclaimed impulsively. "What she needs mostly is fresh air and to be amused. After that, her studies."

"I didn't give you this job to tell me what my child needs," Fay Garwood exclaimed shrilly. "You do as you're told, do you hear?" Noel stood there meeting the woman's angry eyes without wavering. And there must have been something about her clear cool gaze, or else it was a discreet little admonitory cough from the butler. Anyway, Fay Garwood unexpectedly apologized. "You can see that my poor nerves are simply—ruined," she said with a half-sob. "Betsy is just a—an ignoramus. She has to be forced to—put her mind on her studies. And we wouldn't dare risk any excitement for her, because you see—the doctors, they say she's a mental case. Now maybe you understand."

Reds Win Back Of Vander Meer

HANKUS PANKUS CAN KISS CHANCES TO PASS RUTH'S RECORD GOODBYE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Coach Curtis Parker is beating the heat down at Shreveport by having his Centenary football squad report for practice at 6 a. m. . . . Al Schacht says: "I wish I had Lou Gehrig's money; Moe Berg's gall and my good times." . . . Suppose you read where Bill Terry did a right-about-face and put the Giants back in the flag race . . . Haw! . . . Bill McKechnie usually addresses umpires with the prefix of Mister, but he must have said "Mr. So and So" the other day when he drew that $150 fine.

* * *

Looks like Hank Greenberg can kiss his chances of catching up with Babe Ruth's home run record good-bye . . . The year he swatted 60 for a new record, the Bam got six of them during the first seven days of September . . . Hank's record so far this month is zero. . . . West Virginia has a five-year football plan which is supposed to wind up in the Rose Bowl in 1940. . . . Sammy Baugh's contract with the Washington Redskins calls for $1 per year . . . He is paid his record salary on a side agreement with the club owners.

Two colored ball teams played a 14-inning 2-2 tie at Concord (N. C.) the other night and announced at midnight that the game had to be called on account of expenses. . . . One New York newspaper hints Bobby Riggs already has lined himself up a fat job with a Chicago sporting goods firm . . . Here's an old familiar line: "Grimes sees Dodgers set for next year" . . . They've already got Mickey Cochrane managing the 1939 Dodgers again, but forget it . . . It's Beantown for Black Mike.

IT WAS just 30 years ago this month that Fred Merkle pulled that famous boner . . . Fame isn't fleeting for old Babe Ruth . . . You'd be surprised at the votes he's getting for the breakfast food firm's all-star team . . . Failing to land Babe either at first or in right field, his admirers now are trying to vote him into center

Ailing Southpaw Shows Up Well As He Stops Leaders In Night Game.

CINCINNATI — (UP) —Johnny (Double No Hit) Vander Meer, southpaw second year pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, found himself back in the early season form today that brought him fame. He halted the first-place Pirates, 5 to 3, before 29,043 fans Thursday night.

In his first starting assignment since Aug. 10 when he retired with an ear ailment, Vander Meer looked like his old self and limited the Pirates to seven hits and struck out three. He was inclined to wildness, walking seven and frequently getting "behind" the batter but this may be attributed to his enforced vacation.

Leave for Chicago.

Redleg followers held hope that addition of Vander Meer to Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters, Charles (Red) Barrett as starting pitchers would furnish the extra spark toward the pennant as Manager Bill McKechnie and his men leave tonight on a road trip that takes them to every city in the circuit. The Reds open against the Cubs in Chicago Saturday.

Pittsburgh's jittery club, sensing their first pennant in a decade, must make the same trip, starting at St. Louis Saturday. Their lead over the Reds was shaved to four and one-half games and to four games over the second-place Cubs by Vander Meer's performance.

Reversing their form of the previous day, the Pirates didn't look like champions in the field last night although Cy Blanton, who had beaten Cincinnati on four previous occasions this year, pitched good ball

The speedball artist gave up eight hits and struck out eight but was the victim of four errors, three by Rookie Johnny Rizzo in left field. The latter, up from Columbus, redeemed himself partially in the ninth inning when he smashed a home run with Paul Waner on base and the Pirates trailing 5 to 1. But Vander Meer halted the rally.

The Reds' batting attack was not robust but had timeliness. The McKechnie clan counted one in the fourth on a bunt and an error. The winning markers crossed the plate in the Reds' sixth.

Wally Berger, who looked good at the plate all evening, doubled, Lombardi was purposely passed and Harry Craft loaded the bases with a liner back of third base. This set the stage for Lew Riggs and the third-baseman who has been none too effective at the plate this year came through with a line single to centerfield scoring two runs When Rizzo kicked away the ball, the speedy Craft also crossed the plate and Riggs took second.

Bucs' Error Helps.

The last Red marker came in the seventh on a walk, two hits and an error. The Pirates scored their first run in the fifth on hits by Lloyd and Paul Waner and an outfield fly. It was Vander Meer's 13th victory against seven defeats for the season

The overflow crowd pushed the season's home attendance past 670,000 only a few thousand short of the 676,081 all-time Cincinnati record set in 1926

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASEBALL is the national pastime, it cannot be denied, but the cork center of the ball comes from the cork trees of Spain, Portugal and Africa, the stout linen thread with which the cover is sewn comes from flax grow in Russia, Belgium and Ireland and the rubber comes from the Dutch East Indies . . . Don't be surprised to see the Yankees' Jake Powell leave the major leagues next winter as result of the remark he made during a dugout radio broadcast. . . . They feed chewing tobacco to Greyhound, the famous trotter, when they take pictures of him whinnying. The tobacco irritates and he has to "laugh" to dislodge it. . . . "Jabbo" Giles, says Newark's Eddie Schrack, has entered Akron university.

Jake Powell

A New York writer cracked: "The American league is sweeping to its usual photo-finish—a group picture of the Yankees" . . . Arkansas has an end this year who stands six feet, eight inches.... A couple of Massillon's famous football sons, Mike Byleye and Gus Morningstar, are expected to do big things for Purdue this season. . . . Charlie Grimm denies there was any front office interference in the six years he managed the Cubs.

Bobby Feller shouldn't feel so badly about his inability to find the plate. Back in 1909, Bill Gray of Washington walked eight in one inning. . . . A wag wrote an Akron sports editor: "I made $19.20 removing 'Boost the (Cleveland) Indians for Champions' stickers from windshields at 10 cents per removal, and sold $11.75 worth of razor blades to fellows who were so mad they wanted to remove their own!" . . .

Chisox Want Pytlak, But So Do Indians.

Purdue's "ideal" gridder weighs slightly under 181, stands a little over 5 feet, 11 inches tall, leans toward engineering, and might be classified as a junior with a sophomorish tinge, judging from the averages of the 80 Boilermaker candidates to report to Mal Elwards Saturday. . . . The Chisox are interested in obtaining Frankie Pytlak, but the Indians are also interested in keeping him. So the deal's off.

Champs, Stars Extend Series, Battle to Tie

Ashton Scores Tying Run In Ninth On Error.

It will take another game to determine the softball supremacy in the current series between the champion Johns Park and City Class A league all-stars

In what should have been the deciding game yesterday, the two teams battled to a 6 to 6 tie at League park before a large crowd. The game was called at the end of the ninth because of darkness.

The Johnnies held a 6 to 5 advantage going into the ninth inning, but the All-Stars tied it up to earn a draw. With two gone in the ninth, Aston singled for his third hit of the game. With Musille at the plate, Aston broke for second, and scored when Hunt's throw got away from Mahoney.

The All-Stars jumped on Jim Fullager for three runs in the first inning and added single runs in the second and fourth to gain a 5 to 0 lead before the Johnnies could retaliate.

The Johnnies gained their first lead in the seventh when Freddy Carver socked out a home run with Bowen on the sacks.

Aston of the All-Stars was the hitting star with a triple and two singles. The All-Stars obtained nine hits off the delivery of Jim Fullager, while Ted Frisbee set the champions down with seven. Kenny Ross collected two of the seven.

Native Players Give Bucks Edge

Columbus University Gets Smarter, More Advanced Material Than Minnesota, Big Ten Mentors Insist.

By FRANCIS J. POWERS, International News Service Sports Writer.

CHICAGO—What Western conference school gets the best football material? First guess might be Minnesota but that's wrong; it's Ohio State. Your correspondent had some such idea but for verification polled Big Ten coaches.

Choice of Ohio State was not unanimous, Francis Schmidt dissenting loudly and a couple of others preferring Minnesota timber As to size and numbers there is little to choose between the Gophers and Buckeyes but Ohio State is said to get smarter and more advanced talent.

That difference is found in the class of high school football played in the two states. Minnesota, outside the Twin Cities, Duluth and a few others, has no large towns Gopher players who come from townships and crossroads are only casually coached and deficient in fundamentals. Such material usually is two seasons away from varsity quality when it reaches the Minnesota campus.

Ohio Colleges Start Drills for 1938 Season

By RUSSELL FULLER

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The call to arms, clear and emphatic and sounded to the accompaniment of curt retorts of determined coaches, ordered Ohio conference football squads to hard drill today in preparation for the onrushing pigskin season.

With a few days of preliminary workouts dismissed, some of the squads were as hot as a gridiron under the feet of two superior elevens; other teams displayed only average ability, some as is always the case, had outlooks that were only dim; from a few there were no reports

Situated as smugly as any of its rivals was Findlay with a score of lettermen plus 19 promising sophomores Indeed, as Coach Howard Kissell surveyed the prospects he was given to establish the Orange and Black as dark horse contenders Findlay only won two games last year

At Capital university in Columbus, Coach Bill Bernlohr was bemoaning the loss of Ken Heislet flashy halfback in 1937. With 19 lettermen on deck Bowling Green's Coach Harry Ockerman was able to predict the proverbial "fair" future.

Kenyon with a light, fast squad but only a few lettermen was not overly optimistic and Kent State according to Coach Donald Starn plans to bank on a strong line to put some games on the right side of the docket.

Ashland, under a new coach, Frank Lonero, has a small squad and smaller prospects for any immediate improvement over the previous season.

T. W. Stobbs' Wittenberg Lutherans, with eight lettermen and a squad of 35, need a backfield and a couple of good ends. Especially, with Carnegie Tech on the schedule for the feature game.

Leonard Thom giant tackle, who was the stalwart at Heidelberg last year, will be missed when Coach Ted Turney sends his Student Princes, including 10 lettermen out for what he predicts will be a "dismal" season.

Mt Union supporters say the outlook is "uncertain" thus far and at Muskingum, Coach Stu Holcomb said he would rather wait awhile before making any forecasts. Denison, Wooster, Baldwin-Wallece, Case and John Carroll, all of whom give the fans a real show will have elevens whose quality will depend on the ability of the coaches to work with material not too promising Ohio Northern has a tough eight-game schedule that can spell plenty of trouble for a small school

Oberlin and Otterbein make no attempt to conceal the fact that they will have just average representation

Loses Chance To Pass Sox

Cleveland Turned Back By Benton, 4 To 1.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians today expressed a wish that his erratic Tribe could spend the rest of the season playing on the road, preferably at St. Louis and Detroit.

After piling up nine straight victories on the tail-end of their last big road jaunt of the season, the Indians returned to League park yesterday and dropped a game to Detroit 4 to 1.

Alton Benton, a six-foot, five-inch righthander, gave the home club eight hits, the same number as Detroit collected off Earl Whitehill and Denny Galehouse, but the Tiger rookie managed to keep the Tribe blows well scattered.

The Indians had one development of the day to be thankful for—the mighty Yankees who earlier had ruined what looked like the Tribe's first chance for a pennant since 1921, shut out Boston, 4 to 0 This left Cleveland and Boston tied for second place with the balance of the schedule favoring the Indians, playing mostly at home.

Willis Hudlin for the Indians and Tommy Bridges for the Tigers were the probable pitchers in the second game today of the Cleveland-Detroit series.

COACHES CONTEND OHIO PRODUCES BEST TALENT

Ohio State, on the other hand, has more cities of over 25,000 population than any other state. It is geographically compact and its caliber of prep school football likely is equaled only by Texas. This preparatory competition cases the task of Ohio State coaches, and places unusual value on sophomores

Minnesota and Ohio State are similar in that they depend more than 90 per cent on home grown players. There is this difference, however. Seldom does a good Minnesota high school player go elsewhere than the state university while Ohio boys feed not only the fifty odd colleges within the state but also Michigan, Indiana, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Duke and dozens of others.

Michigan used to draw more heavily on Ohio raised players than currently and just a few Buckeyes to star at Ann Arbor were Benny Friedman, Ernie Vick, Jack Blott, Ivan Williamson, Tom Austin and Bill Renner. Much of that Michigan migration has been checked since Francis Schmidt took command at Columbus but this season again will find several Ohioans on the Michigan squad.

Coaches were evenly divided between Purdue and Northwestern as to the third best material in the conference. Both the Boilermakers and the Purple had only average talent until ten years ago when the upswing began under the coaching of Jimmy Phelan and Dick Hanley. Purdue won its first modern Big Ten championship in 1929 with "Pest" Welch, Harmeson, White, Jim Purvis, and Red Sleightand. Consistently good material followed that victory.

The grain of Northwestern's timber has been steadily improving with Lynn Waldorf's successful coaching tactics and it is reported that this season's Purple freshmen are the equal of any ever seen within the Big Ten.

Hoosiers Improve.

Since "Bo" McMillin took Indiana by its boot straps and lifted it from the ruck of the Big Ten, Hoosier material has been improving. The Hoosiers have representatives of a half a dozen or more states on their squad but each season finds more Indiana boys turning to Bloomington for higher education on the gridiron. Wisconsin is also moving up under Harry Stuhldreher, who was faced with the problem of turning the state's prep school stars to Madison and has succeeded very well.

Michigan's man power fell off mightily during the past five seasons but has shown improvement this year and the same can be said of Iowa, which has the makings of the best Hawkeye team in a matter of ten seasons. Chicago, which makes no emphasis of football, attracts few outstanding prep stars and no coach envies Clark Shaughnessy his squad, albeit the tall tactician does as well as could be asked with the players at his disposal.

Roll 2715 In Opening Matches In Commercial Bowling League.

JUDGING from opening night's scores, the Office Cafe bowling representatives will bear watching during the 1937-38 season.

The Cafe not only produced the outstanding team total in the inaugural matches in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night, but also the highest individual count.

Led by Bookman, who cracked the maples for a 602 total, the only 600 shot last night, the Catemen whipped up a 2715 count from games of 851, 888 and 976 to take two decisions from the Heilman Grocers. The Grocers won the first game by the margin of 10 pins. After opening with a 179, Bookman punched out two scores of 212 and 211.

Although not showing as much class as the Office Cafe, the Satterlee Restaurant club won the most games last night. The restaurant team took three games from the Ohio Public Service entry to gain first place. The best score turned in by one of Satterlee's men was a 557 by Geiger.

Two-game winners were the Metz Auto Supplies, who defeated the Yuncker Sports; Shelby Cycles, winner over the Kochheiser Mansfield Athletic Supplies; Mansfield Rugs, victors over the Mansfield Printers, and Ringside Cafe, which trimmed the Burghardt's Cafe.

Paul Dean Joins Cards, Slated to Work Sunday

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Back in a St. Louis Cardinals' uniform after a season with Dallas of the Texas league, Pitcher Paul Dean today was Manager Frank Frisch's choice to hurl for the Cardinals against the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday.

Dean slipped into his old uniform right after arriving here yesterday and Frisch declared he looked "good" after the workout. Paul lost 16 games and won but eight in the Texas league.

Bucks Report On Saturday

48 To Start Drills For Opener With Indiana.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—When a select squad of 48 candidates for the 1938 Ohio State gridiron eleven reports for initial practice Saturday morning, Coach Francis Schmidt and his assistants will face their biggest problem in filling the line holes left by graduation of five of seven regulars in the front ranks.

The coaching staff found consolation, however, in glancing down a row of 14 lettermen from the outfit which finished second to Minnesota in last year's Big Ten race.

Co-Captain Carl Kaplanoff and Alex Schoenbaum, 210-pounder, regular tackles, will be the bulwarks around which he will build the new forward wall, Schmidt indicated

Practice sessions will be two-a-day until after the opening game in Ohio State stadium with Indiana, Oct. 1.

Fred E. Elder is president of the league and Harry Frick is vice president.

U. S. WOMEN GOLFERS RALLY TO RETAIN TITLE

MANCHESTER- BY-THE-SEA, Mass —(UP)—The Curtis Cup, emblematic of women's golf supremacy between the United States and Great Britain, remained in its showcase here today, to be undisturbed for two more years at least.

Victories in five out of six singles matches enabled the American team to come from behind, score a 5½ to 3½ victory yesterday and retain the trophy which never has been in British possession since it was put in competition six years ago.

WHIZZER WHITE TO MAKE PROFESSIONAL BOW TODAY

DETROIT—(UP)—Byron (Whizzer) White, most publicized college star of the 1937 football season, makes his debut as a professional tonight in the National League's curtain raiser between the Detroit Lions and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

White, sensational halfback of Colorado university, is the biggest question mark confronting the pro magnates today. He delayed taking advantage of a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford to accept the Pirates' $15.000 offer to play one season.

PORTSMOUTH, AKRON WIN OPENING PLAY-OFF GAMES

PORTSMOUTH — (AP) — Portsmouth's pennant-winning Red Birds and the fourth-place Akron Yankees advanced to within two games of the Mid-Atlantic league "series" today.

The Birds, working smoothly behind Lefty Ernst White, whipped third-berth Springfield 6 to 2 in the first game of the Shauginnessy playoff last night, while Akron applied the power at Canton and defeated the second-place Terriers, 5 to 3. The same clubs meet tonight in the second of the three-out-of-five series

THEATER

PARIS is beginning to rival New York City as the locale of movie stories. Think of the pictures of the last year that have had Paris backgrounds. In production now are "Say It In French," and "Men With Wings," "Paris Honeymoon" (with Bing Crosby, Franciska Gaal), "Artists and Models Abroad" (with Joan Bennett and Jack Benny), and "If I Were King," the Ronald Colman vehicle. Then there was "The Rage of Paris" and "She Met Him In Paris" or whatever the Claudette Colbert film was. And there probably will be Paris sequences in "Zaza" which Miss Colbert is making.

Glorified Legs.

Martha Raye, comedy star, has gone glamorous in her new picture "Give Me a Sailor." It was the star's own desire to be a glamor gal that led her studio to try her out in that role on the public, and her legs are the basis of her appeal. But she has competition in the presence of Betty Grable, who has Figure No. 1 in Hollywood. The picture is offered at the Madison.

An Old Favorite.

Several new songs are introduced in "Breaking the Ice," the Bobby Breen film at the Madison, but the most tuneful is an old favorite with new words It is an arrangement of Schubert's "Serenade," and is entitled "Goodbye, My Dreams." Little Irene Dare, the "baby Sonja Henie" of the ice, does some clever figure skating in the picture, and young Breen sings.

Starrett at Majestic.

A lone cowboy's efforts to rid a western community of its lawlessness and at the same time solve a mystery of many years standing supply the motivation for "Law of the Plains" with stalwart Charles Starrett The picture is one of the features at the Majestic and is shown with "Prison Break," a dramatic tale of men on the inside, with Glenda Farrell and Barton McLane.

Gambles With Life.

Bob Steele portrays Dave Austin who matches his life and his wits against an Apache Indian outlaw in "Desert Patrol," at the Ritz. There are hair-raising episodes before the cowboy clears the name of his friend and routs a gang of badmen. Bobby Breen in "Hawaii Calls," which takes the child singer to the island and gives him opportunity to sing Hawaiian songs, is the second feature.

Brisk Business Reflects Change In Men's Shoe Styles

Judging from the heavy sales on the new shoes at Siegenthaler's, a radical change is taking place in men's styles. In the past few years, the ranking styles have been of a very conservative type with a few lines of stitching and close-cut edges. Today these styles have given way to heavy, masculine, broguish shoes in heavy grains and boarded leathers with punching replacing the rows of stitching. Toes are modified with a fullness heretofore found only in imported-British models in the thirty dollar field. Extremely narrow toes are fewer and the straight or French toe, while still made by a few mid-western manufacturers, has been dropped from production by the old-line Eastern companies.

Sizes, too, are changing. In a survey of the sizes sold at Siegenthaler's in the last four months, it was found that the sales covered a range of 104 different sizes, from 5 to a 14½, and from AAA to EEEE. Size 9 C was the most popular.

PIVOTAL ISSUES HIT BY SELLING AFTER OPENING

Tension Over German-Czech Situation Reflected In Stock Market.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Easier tendencies persisted in the stock market today as weakness in the principal security centers aboard indicated renewed tension over the critical German-Czech situation.

Losses ran to more than a point in pivotal issues from the opening, although some support was met late in the first hour. Motors, steels, coppers, oils, building shares and mail orders led the way downward.

Just before noon fresh selling made an appearance, and the general list dropped to new lows on the day.

Dupont was weaker than the average, slumping 2 points on a few sales. A long list of pivotal issues slipped a point or more, including Chrysler, General Motors, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, American Tobacco "B," Montgomery Ward, American Smelting, Loew s, Union Pacific, Johns-Manville and Philip Morris.

Mourners Jam Church, Streets At Rites For Cardinal Hayes

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—In a scene of solemn splendor seldom if ever surpassed in America's ecclesiastical history, mourning thousands assembled today for the last rites for Patrick Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York.

Fifth avenue, symbol of everything modern, was thronged around St. Patrick's cathedral where the funeral mass was celebrated with a ritual centuries old.

In magnitude and dignity, the funeral of the gentle prelate who rose from a humble life as an East Side boy to become spiritual leader of more than 1,000,000 Roman Catholics was a tribute such as has been paid to few Americans.

Men and women of many faiths, government and city officials, mingled in the cathedral, with representatives of Catholic orders and institutions and a tremendous gathering of mourning laymen.

The greatest array of Catholic ecclesiastics ever to attend the funeral of a New York churchman prayed for the repose of the Cardinal's soul.

Besides the crowd inside the cathedral, the street without was jammed with mourners who heard the pontifical requiem mass over a public address system.

Cardinal Hayes' final rest will be in a crypt under the altar of St. Patrick's cathedral.

5 NEW NOVELS AIR PROBLEMS OF OLD SOUTH

Volumes On Library Booklist; 'Trending Into Maine' Tops Non-Fiction.

Five novels of the south, presenting as many problems faced by that section of the country, are among the new fiction added by the Mansfield Public library.

"Mingled Yarn," by Willie Snow Ethridge, author of "As I Live and Breathe," is the story of Ellen Martin, reared in the traditional atmosphere of southern capitalism, who finds her loyalty challenged by her militantly liberal husband. Ed Bell's second novel of Tennessee is a vivid picture of life in Negrotown, "on the other side of the tracks." The title, "Tommy Lee Feathers," is the name of a colored football hero who is just one of many colorful characters in a small southern town.

The isolation of settlements in the Kentucky mountains is strongly drawn in "Heaven Came So Near," by Hubert Skidmore. Charles Curtis Munz presents the plight of tenant farmers in his new book, "Land Without Moses." The Sartoris stories, worked into a continuous narrative, called "The Unvanquished," by William Faulkner, deal with the latter days of the Civil war. Faulkner tells of the time when the Sartoris plantation and its people are threatened by the coming of the Yankee soldiers.

Other fiction books are, "Case of the Tudor Queen," by Bush, "Case of the Substitute Face," by Gardner; "Exquisite Siren," by Haines; "I See A Wondrous Land," by Kamban, and "Old Home Week" by Moody

Variety of Non-Fiction.

Heading the non-fiction list is "Trending Into Maine," by Kenneth Lewis Roberts, in which he tells many things about his native state he has learned by various methods, such as delving into old diaries and town records, chatting with old sea captains and fishermen, and driving along the much-advertised U. S. route 1.

Two interesting books on the European situation are "Across the Frontiers" by Philip Gibbs and "Insanity Fair" by Douglas Reed Gibbs points out the problems to be solved and facts to be faced, and Reed, a newspaper correspondent, describes his experiences as a soldier during the World war "Muhammad, a Mercy to All the Nations," by Al-Hajj Quassim Ali Jairazbhoy is a life of the prophet which has been presented to the library as a gift.

Other non-fiction: "Geography of Reading" by Wilson; "Freedom, Love and Truth, an anthology of the Christian Life" by Inge, "Marxism and Modern Thought" by Bukharin and others, "Creative Group Education" by Slavson, "Secondary School Teaching" by Umstattd; "Introduction to Cultural Anthropoligy" by Lowie, "Aircraft Yearbook for 1938;" "How the Fashion World Works" by Stevenson, Editor; "Play In Poetry" by Untermeyer; "Henry Ford and Greenfield Village" by Simonds, "European Summer" by Sterns, "Railroadman" by French

DOG KEEPS GOING ROUND 'N' ROUND

'Mental Quirk' Blamed for Animal's Strange Actions.

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Dan Griffin's little black dog keeps going around and around to the left faster and faster until it has to rest so it can go around again.

Unless the dog is tied up it spends its waking hours going around. It starts slowly and picks up speed until it makes 50 revolutions a minute And it keeps this up for several minutes, then rests and starts again

The only explanation advanced is that the dog has a 'mental quirk"

FARMER HURT

LUCAS — Roy Culler, Monroe township farmer, was painfully injured early this week when a horse he was riding threw him to the ground and fell on him While no bones were broken in the unusual accident, Culler's hip was badly bruised preventing the use of his leg and foot

CHICKENS ROOST IN TREE

ANDOVER, Mass.—(AP)—Henry S. Wright's flock of Leghorn hens is attracting much attention by roosting in apple trees flanking his house. But Wright says the fowls are only "reverting to an old Leghorn custom"

EUROPE THINKS U. S. WILL HELP TO STOP HITLER

Writer Says Powers Convinced America Allies Self With Britain And France.

By WEBB MILLER
(By United Press)
(Copyright 1938)

LONDON—Europe is convinced that the United States has morally allied herself with Great Britain and France to stop Adolf Hitler.

The British, in particular, believe that there is a vague but discernible "peace axis" stretching from Washington to London to Paris

They are convinced that the axis is effective for the purpose of bringing moral pressure on Germany to avoid aggression against Czechoslovakia Emphasis on the word "moral" does not discount in their minds the effectiveness of the peace axis

Basis for Opinions.

These developments have nourished a revised European view of America's position

1 President Roosevelt's speech declaring that the United States would "not stand idly by" if Canada were attacked

2. Ambassador William C Bullitt's speeches at Rheims and Bordeaux saying that the United States stands with France "in war as in peace" and lauding Franco-American ties.

3 Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's speech in Scotland citing settlement of the Anglo-American dispute over Pacific island rights as a guide to European troublemakers.

4. The series of broadcasts by Secretary of State Cordell Hull aimed toward restoration of international law and consolidation of the so-called democratic nations against "international anarchy"

Those declarations, it is emphasized in London, cannot be taken as anything but the development of a carefully planned policy, in which the speeches of Washington's ambassadors are an authorized part

In official circles, the American developments together with confidential diplomatic contacts are now taken to mean American endorsement of Britain's policies as far as they are aimed at preventing the outbreak of war.

British officials and the press, meanwhile, are obviously going out of their way to win American favor American newspaper correspondents have noticed unusual efforts recently to aid them. American tourists report a warmer welcome.

ADDS HIGHWAY

State Takes Over Section Of Shelby-Bucyrus Road.

A section of the Shelby-Bucyrus road in Richland county had been added to the state highway system today, making a total of 70 miles of county roads which have been made a part of the state system in the past two years.

Negotiations for annexation of the road were started more than a year ago by County Engineer Howard Sword, but right-of-way disputes in Crawford county held up action by the state highway department.

The Richland county section of the road, which extends westward from Shelby to the county line, is 2.41 miles long. It will be widened and improved by the state.

FARMERS TO HEAR OF CHANGES IN WHEAT PROGRAM AT 5 MEETINGS

A series of five meetings in all parts of the county had been scheduled today to acquaint farmers with cnanges in the federal wheat program for 1939

The principal change, Guy Taylor, county soils committee chairman, pointed out, will permit the farmer whose wheat acreage allotment has been cut to eight acres or less to plant any acreage he wishes provided he used the additional acreage for pasture

This change, Taylor said, will enable farmers to sow wheat over an entire field without breaking the rotation of crops

The federal conservation plan provides that any farmer who sows more than the 1938 wheat acreage allottment with the intention of selling the wheat, will not receive the price adjustment payment and may not be eligible for the 1939 conservation payment, Taylor explained

With Taylor, C. C. Till and G A Mentzer, county committeemen in charge, the meetings will be held at Mansfield, Bellville, Lucas Shenandoah and Ontario Another probably will be held at Shelby, but no date had been set today, Taylor said.

The schedule follows:

Courthouse, Mansfield, 1 30 p. m Saturday, Bellville Grange hall, 8 p m Saturday. Lucas Equity hall, 8 p m. Tuesday, Shenandoah Grange hall, 8 p. m Wednesday Springfield township high school, 8 p m Thursday, Sept 15

BERRODIN WINS U.S. SUPPORT ON PENSION STAND

Social Security Chairman Joins Ohio Chief In Blast At Politics.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The social security board's chairman joined Ohio's old age pension chief today in decrying injection of political issues into the federal-state dispute over administration of the Buckeye state's aid for the aged system.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the federal board said he hoped "responsible officials in Ohio may take steps to correct the old age pension situation."

Gov. Martin L. Davey earlier charged that Altmeyer instigated the politics-in-pensions inquiry to aid Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman, who won the gubernatorial nomination in the Aug. 9 primary.

Sees Sawyer Today.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson was reported planning to confer wth Sawyer today preparatory to a hurried trip to Washington for consultations designed to avert a stoppage of the federal government's half of pensioners' funds.

Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the Ohio pension system, scoffed at published reports that he would be shorn of power by Governor Davey because of Berrodin's attempts to defend the state's administration after Davey ordered him to shun the federal board's hearing.

"It seems to be making good fiction," said Berrodin.

Referring to Berrodin's statement yesterday that he was concerned only with the aged and "to hell with this squabble," Altmeyer said last night:

"The board agrees with Mr. Berrodin that the matter should be handled on a constructive basis and is hopeful that his statement indicates responsible authorities in Ohio may correct the situation.

Berrodin had referred to charges and counter-charges that have been exchanged between Davey and the federal board since early last month when the board charged the Ohio system was mismanaged and used to benefit the governor politically.

Berrodin, acting under orders from Davey, did not attend a hearing in Washington this week called to determine whether U. S. funds should be withheld from Ohio.

"The board regrets Mr. Berrodin did not attend the hearing in the hope that a constructive program could be undertaken immediately to correct serious defects in addition to political influence in the administration of aid," Altmeyer said.

Berrodin could not be reached for comment.

NEW YORK—(INS)—An indeterminate term in Elmira's reformatory was the penalty faced today by Santiago Gutierrez, 20-year-old waiter, for attempting to extort $30,000 from Murray Levine, father of the kidnaped and slain Peter Levine. The prisoner made no comment when sentence was imposed.

source of these things," he added.

"To keep a college Christian," he added, "it will be necessary to rediscover its original purposes, be willing to be different in the face of criticism, to pay the price of supporting such institutions, and to keep the Christian institution in the minds of the people."

Dr. Clippinger's brother, Bishop A. R. Clippinger of Dayton, who presides at conference sessions, said "the safety of our national government and American ideals depends on maintaining Christian homes."

Speaking at this morning's session, Bishop Clippinger criticized the too active part women have taken in politics and public life since they were given the right to vote.

"Women of today are seeking careers and independence, forgetting the home life which built the nation," he said. "It is a sad situation when we realize that the people able to raise large families are not having children because children are becoming liabilities in the average home.

"The American home, with its disintegrated state of affairs and numerous divorces, does not speak well for the continuity of our government," he asserted.

"Because of their independence and ambition, women often earn more than men and consequently the women's standards are so high that marriage often escapes them because young men haven't the courage to propose to them," the bishop declared.

He urged pastors to establish training classes in their churches to arouse interest in keeping the home on a sound basis.

Rev. J. R. Howe, D. D., of Dayton was to be the principal speaker this afternoon. He will talk on "The Christian Minister and the Home."

Tonight's meeting has been designated as "missionary night" with addresses to be given by Mrs. C. J. McGee and Rev. S. G. Zeigler of Dayton. Special committee sessions were set for late this afternoon, and the final election of officers is due Saturday afternoon.

The conference will close at noon Sunday when pastor assignments in the 27 counties which make up the East Ohio district, will be announced.

AWAIT APPROVAL OF NEW PROJECT

Shelby Work At Standstill As WPA Holds Up Action On Supplement Program.

SHELBY—With all WPA projects in the city at a standstill, Shelby city officals today awaited the approval of a $116,000 alley, street and supplement program.

The application for the grant was filed with WPA officials in Columbus this summer, but Shelby officials have not been notified of any action.

The project would supplement the project closed last week by WPA due to lack of funds, city officials said. The project calls for the employment of approximately 100 men. The city, as sponsor, would pay $50,262 for materials and equipment, while WPA would provide $65,758 for labor.

Although the approval of the project was expected by the first of September, city officials said that "they thought the project was probably held up due to an investigation of G-Men and WPA inspectors into Shelby's sidewalk program last week."

Nine separate cases had been found here where a garage floor, driveway and private sidewalks had ben laid on private property by WPA. A city official and employe had been included in the charges, city officals revealed.

MAYOR ACTS IN FRISCO STRIKE

Urges Both Sides To Attempt Settlement of Store Walk-out.

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Mayor Angelo J. Rossi sought a formula today for ending San Francisco's department store strike, which threw picket lines around 35 establishments and resulted in sporadic violence.

The city's chief executive, after conferring with both sides in the dispute, said he saw no reason why they could not get together "for the best interests of San Francisco."

The walkout, which started Wednesday after contract negotiations collapsed, affected but failed to close most of the major department stores in the downtown area and some in other districts.

Some Britons, mindful of the indecision and delays of British diplomacy in 1914, believed a new, stronger warning to Germany was being prepared.

Germany's anti-Communist allies rallied to pledge her moral support.

Italy, Japan Backs Nazis.

Italy was prepared "for any eventualities" and the Informazione Diplomatica, considered by some to be virtually a government communique, advised Prague to forestall a "very grave crisis."

An informed source in Tokyo said Japan had assured Germany of her "moral support."

The Nazi view was that a plebiscite would give Britain a chance to "save face" over the "failure" of the unofficial British mediation mission in Czechoslovakia to achieve a peaceful compromise. They argued that the plebiscite is "a democratic idea."

Hitler has firmly rejected all Czechoslovak offers.

German newspapers have exploited the whipping Wednesday of a Sudeten German deputy by a policeman at Maehrisch-Ostrau, Czechoslovakia. The opinion gained that the German public was being prepared for the idea that Germany must help the Sudeten Germans to establish law and order.

In Spain the government reported it had reoccupied positions in the Caballos mountains captured this week by Insurgents on the northeastern front. Other sectors were quiet.

In China, reorganized Chinese units said they had halted Japanese advances toward Hankow, China's provisional capital, on both banks of the Yangtze river.

A 17-passenger Ford tri-motor airliner owned by Major Leslie G. Mulzer, veteran Army Air corps reserve officer, will return to Mansfield Sunday for a series of flights over the city.

The ship, which was in the city earlier in the summer, is of all-metal construction. Flights will be made from the municipal airport on North Main street road, beginning at 9 a. m.

The airliner is 60 feet long, 80 feet from wing tip to tip, weighs 15,500 pounds loaded, has two pilots, is equipped with two-way radio communication, and is powered with three Wasp engines of 1,500-horsepower.

Miss Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield parachute jumper, is scheduled to jump from the ship at 4 p. m. from an altitude of 3,500 feet. Due to government regulations the jump will not be made if the wind velocity is over 15 miles per hour. Miss Reighard recently competed with 40 men parachute jumpers at the National Air Races at Cleveland.

DIES IN AUTO

Prominent Ohio Physician, Horseman, Found Dead Near Dayton.

DAYTON —(AP)— Dr. H. H. Smith, 77, practicing physician in Oxford for more than 35 years and prominent for years in harness racing events, was found dead in his automobile on the Dayton-Miamisburg road, about a mile and a half south of Miamisburg today.

Acting Coroner R. D. Snyder stated death probably was due to a heart attack.

GREEN STUDIES OHIO ELECTION

A. F. of L. Head Gives Governor's Race 'Careful Thought.'

COSHOCTON — (U.P.) — President William Green of the A. F. of L. said today he was giving "careful thought and attention" to the Ohio gubernatorial race.

He made this response in answer to a question whether he was going to endorse Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman and party nominee for governor, against John W. Bricker, Republican nominee. The federation already has endorsed Sawyer's running mate, Sen. Robert J. Bulkley.

It is not customary for the national federation to endorse candidates for state offices. Green, however, is a voter in Coshocton.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES—By Mail: Richland and adjoining counties per year, $4.00; 6 months, $2.25; 3 months, $1.25, (in advance), elsewhere in Ohio per year, $6.00; in U. S. outside of Ohio, per year, $7.00. By Carrier, per week, 15c.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1938.

As they say in California, "Live and yearn."

It appears that on this occasion President Roosevelt is not anxious for glad Tydings from Maryland.

No wonder the nation's gambling bill runs to ten billion dollars a year, for, as one Chicago bookie joint operator remarked after a raid, "There's hell to pay!"

Decides Against Mileage Grab.

TO ONE not versed in the intricacies of laws and law-making it seems entirely clear that a mileage allowance to legislators is intended to cover travel costs.

To Ohio legislators, however, mileage allowance has meant collection on the basis of weekly round trips between the member's home and Columbus, even when the general assembly was in prolonged recess and no trips were made.

To the ordinary mind, uninitiated in politics and statecraft, such collections might seem to be petty graft, or at least a breach of trust.

Records were doctored, it is asserted, to show weekly sessions during recess periods, and attorneys for the legislators contended that courts could not go behind these records. In one instance, it appears, this chicanery covered a 22-weeks' recess period.

A taxpayer's suit was entered to restrain payment of $21,500 untraveled mileage to house members and to require recovery of $5,557 that had been paid to senate members.

In deciding this case Judge John R. King, of Franklin county common pleas court, holds that a legislator cannot collect mileage for trips he did not make to attend sessions that were not held.

And this sounds like a common sense decision to taxpayers—who are unversed in legal technicalities.

'Purge' Flops In Nevada.

NEVADA, which escapes California by only a state line, is the most recent of commonwealths to express preference for a senator who thinks for himself rather than qualifying as a "100 per cent New Dealer."

In this week's primaries Nevada Democrats renominated Senator Pat McCarran by a large majority over his two "100 per cent New Deal" rivals—despite the fact that McCarran sacrificed Roosevelt approval by opposing the President's governmental reorganization and supreme court packing plans.

President Roosevelt, who is apparently obsessed by a notion that his judgment is infallible, has been attempting a "purge" of Democratic senators and congressmen whose views differ with his in any way.

Senator McCarran's attitude is that he should support the President when he is "right" and oppose him when "wrong." A majority of Nevada Democrats expressed preference for a senator who reserves the right to THINK, instead of letting someone else THINK FOR HIM.

Next week brings the primaries in Maryland and Georgia, where the "purge" policy has been pursued with extraordinary venom. It may be mentioned that a rubber stamp can be secured at much less cost than is entailed in maintaining a senator.

Picture Producers to Quiz Patrons.

SUCCESSFUL salesmanship, in any field, is largely dependent on providing what the public wants.

This is especially true when it comes to entertainment, in which people pay for what they like rather than for what somebody else thinks they should like.

Biggest element in popular entertainment in recent years is the motion picture industry, which each day caters to millions of adults and children in the United States—and other millions all over the world.

Accustomed to large expenditures in the production of motion pictures, present announcement of plans to carry through a million-dollar campaign to stimulate interest and increase patronage of motion picture theaters is not surprising, although definitely interesting.

A feature of this campaign which promises to attract much attention is in the form of a movie quiz, intended to disclose the likes and dislikes of patrons—which are highly important in determining the kind of pictures to be produced in the future.

Advance announcement of pictures that have been made, or are being made, for showing this fall and winter, indicate the wide range of appeal from which the public will be asked to choose in offering suggestions or making complaints—with a quarter of a million dollars in awards to participants in the quiz.

Such widespread testing of public reaction toward motion pictures of various kinds should work out to the benefit of both producers and patrons.

Remote Ancestors.

MOUNT CARMEL, in Palestine, seems to be a storage house for relics of prehistoric man. Long before the people described in Genesis, says a British account, people lived there who bore little resemblance to modern man.

Bones and skulls from two caves show striking types, one called Tabun and the other Skhul. The former were of the short, thick-set and ape-like form from which most Europeans are supposed to be derived. The latter were taller and more like the Cro-Magnons, hunters and artists, who made the wonderful pictures in the caves of southern France. Their antiquity would be reckoned in scores of thousands of years.

Their interest for us today is chiefly in this: Sir Arthur Keith says that casts taken from the inside of their skulls leave no doubt that "the brains of both were as good as those of modern men. Long before the onset of the last Ice Age, men's brain, hand and foot reached their modern level of development."

If this is true, our progress in the long ages since, up to modern "civilization," comes not from essential superiority, but from getting and storing our human experience.

One of the mysteries of life is why anybody should want to go 345 miles an hour, in any kind of contraption. You can't see anything, hear anything or feel anything—you can only say you've done it.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By JOHN COLLIER
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON — There is a widespread belief that the so-called New Deal for Indians is a novel, unprecedented thing which leaped into action from the brains of Brain Trusters in 1933. The case of the Jicarilla Apaches serves to correct that misunderstanding.

Across 40 years, after the United States annexed the Southwest, the Apaches were the terror of everybody else, and the Jicarilla Apaches were as bad as the worst. In 1887, the Jicarillas were set down on a tract in New Mexico upon the high plateau which straddles the Continental Divide, close to the Colorado line.

In that same year the General Allotment act for Indians was passed, requiring the breaking up of tribal lands into individual holdings, and disregarding even the family institution among Indians. Under this act, the Indians lost ninety million acres of their best land in the 45 years after 1887.

* * *

Hopeless, Dying.

TWENTY years ago, the Jicarilla Apaches were an embittered, hopeless, and literally a dying tribe. Their numbers had fallen from 795 in 1909 to 585 in 1919. They were leasing their entire reservation — 750,000 acres — to commercial stockmen for $10,000 a year, and they were starving upon this lease money and U. S. doles.

In that hopeless hour, there were two necessities. One was to check the shocking death rate. The other was to get the Jicarillas to go to work. The work could be only one sort—livestock work. The devastating mortality rate was partly a reflex of a despairing and unoccupied intellectual and emotional life.

Small issues of sheep were made to each family on a loan basis. Additional issues rewarded ability and willingness. As a result, from an embittered and dying people in 1920, the Jicarillas last year, after 18 years of upbuilding, showed an earned tribal income which had jumped from $10,000 to $150,000, and an earned individual income which had jumped from $20 to $200. In place of dying, they were multiplying.

The Indian Reorganization Act was advocated by President Roosevelt and signed by him in 1934. Almost everybody said: "These Jicarillas will not understand the act. The only time they have ever taken collective responsibility was on the warpath. Their ancient forms simply cannot be readjusted into a modern program. Forget about the Jicarillas."

In addition many people said: "There is an Indian trader who for 40 years has been a sort of federal overload of the Jicarillas. His name is Emmet Wirt and he will never let the Jicarillas organize."

* * *

Hopeful, Thriving.

CURIOUS to know the real situation, I went there and was met by this reputedly ruthless dictator, Emmet Wirt. He proved to be one of the most interesting human beings I have met in years.

He insisted the Jicarillas were capable of any reasonable adjustment if treated like grown men. He offered to help find out what they really would do. Then I met with the Indians. Most of them do not read English or talk it, but the questions they asked probed to the heart of Indian affairs.

Sixteen months ago the Jicarillas adopted their self-governing constitution under the Reorganization Act. A year ago they unanimously adopted their charter of business self-government. Then their delegates came to Washington and negotiated an $80,000 loan under the act to establish the tribe as its own trader, in cattle, commodities, clothing, candy, cigarets — everything but alcohol.

So, one of the most warlike and most archaic tribes has gone from death to life, from pauperism to increasing plenty, from total dependency on the paternalistic Indian office to a high degree of self-rule through guidance supplied by a series of administrations, Republican and Democratic, across 17 years.

Timely Editorial

Marring Roadsides.

The state highway department intends to seek legislation next year that will regulate the placing of billboards and other obstructions along the scenic highways of the state. It is not to be an attempt to outlaw billboards roadside shacks, hot dog stands or other unsightly structures from privately-owned lands, for it is doubtful if this could be accomplished through legislation, but it will be based on safety measures and a co-operative endeavor to prevent the obstruction of scenic views along the right-of-ways and maintain roadside beauty.

There are a number of places in the State where billboards cut off charming views of lakes and rivers. Others are so placed as to conceal views around curves and constitute a safety menace. Others are so grouped as to cheapen approaches to villages and small towns. There appears to be no reason why the owners of these boards could not co-operate with the state and assist in maintaining roadside beauty and safe highways.—Detroit News.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

Thy righteousness is like the great mountains: thy judgments are a great deep: O Lord, thou preservest man and beast.—Psalms 36:6.

Ugly Words In Current Campaign

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The bad language employed in connection with the current political campaigns is remarkable not alone for its badness but because it is so personal.

In particularly hard-fought campaigns in the past candidates for public office occasionally have referred to their rivals as the nominees of highly objectionable interests—in a general way they have denounced their various opposition parties as perfectly awful.

But it hasn't been customary for a candidate to call his opponent by name, and describe him as a "traitor," a "betrayer"—as a crook, in effect.

* * *

NO INCIDENT NOW

There may have been instances of this sort of concentrated vituperation before my time—perhaps in early post-Civil war days, when feelings were intensely bitter.

And, now and then, there were isolated cases of it in the still more distant past. But, in that era, such personal charges led to man-to-man encounters—like the Burr-Hamilton duel or the caning administered by Preston S. Brooks to Charles Sumner.

In that epoch, when a politician was called a "liar" it was an "incident." Now it's a bit of news merely—and not of much consequence either, if any other important news is stirring.

* * *

WHEN THEY WIN

Yet my impression is that a candidate, if tagged with one of these uncomplimentary names, never will forget it.

If he's beaten and stays beaten his growth may never matter, but if he wins or, being beaten, wins later, I would guess that he'll become a permanent irreconcilable.

And quite a few of such candidates are bound to win in the current primaries and coming election.

They'll be a continuing force to be reckoned with.

* * *

NOT BETWEEN PARTIES

This campaign is not very ugly, as between Democrats and Republicans.

Indeed, on personal grounds, it's been gentlemanly. The Republicans have said that the Democrats, individually, are all right—EXCEPT THE NEW DEAL DEMOCRATS. They haven't even charged that individual New Deal Democrats are personal cannibals.

And the New Deal Democrats haven't applied dirty epithets to the Republicans. They've said that the G. O. P. is reactionary, but not that specific Republicans are treasonable—only that they are mistaken "en masse."

As for the Old Deal Democrats, they're half Republicanistic—not that they're Republican, but that they're more so than they are New Dealeristic.

* * *

IT'S HARD ON FRIENDS

Republicans and Old Deal Democrats, then, can be polite to one another. They're friendly enemies.

Republicans are not friendly to New Deal Democrats, but they're not violent.

Old and New Deal Democrats are the folk who hate one another like poison.

They're the ones who exchange recriminations. But they don't exchange them partisanly. They swap words like "liar," "traitor," "blackguard"—and they specify whom they mean—Secretary Ickes, Senator Tydings, Senator Glass, Representative Lewis, the president himself.

Liar, traitor, betrayor, et cetera.

This is intra-party stuff.

Never have I heard political language so crassly expressed.

I can't see how rivals, who have abused one another so virulently, ever can be friends again.

Health Advice

Other Defects of School Children.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have discussed the preparation of the child who is first entering school, first, from the standpoint of protection against dangerous contagious diseases and, second, from the standpoint of effectiveness of vision.

But there are many other physical defects that should be considered.

The child at school is exposed to new responsibilities, and it should be ascertained that he comes to his competitive job, so far as possible, with a healthy and efficient body.

This, as Dr. Allen G. Ireland says, is decidedly the parents' job, and it is the most important way in which they can help the school to do better work. Learning means strain on every resource of the mind and body, and effectiveness is a matter of fitness; that is, physical and mental preparedness to do one's best. Teachers know how true that is. Too many of them are burdened with classes of unfit children.

Commonest Handicaps.

The commonest handicaps, according to careful surveys, are decayed teeth, sore gums, adenoids, diseased tonsils, defective vision, impaired hearing, and malnutrition. All of these can be remedied and the time to do it is before school opens. To wait until after school frequently means loss of time for the pupil and further postponement by the parent. Consult your physician and dentist now. Have these handicaps to good school work removed before your child gets off to a poor start in the new term.

The Parent-Teacher association is engaged in many excellent projects for the welfare of children. But in my opinion they are making one contribution which stands out above all others. I refer to the school lunch—either the mid-session milk luncheon or the organized hot luncheon at noon.

Never before has there been greater need for the Parent-Teacher associations to plan good and adequate school luncheons. The economic conditions of recent years have deprived many households and their children of physical and emotional security. Food has been less plentiful and less wisely chosen. And in some cases, school boards have been compelled to withdraw financial support for the luncheons.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Pulling Chestnuts Out of Fire."

Ned was the name of a monkey, who, adopting a puppy when it was two days old, taught it to eat bread sopped in milk from a dish.

Bursting with pride and ambitious for greater feats, Ned tried to teach the puppy to climb; but though he chattered and chattered all the puppy did was look puzzled and keep his four feet glued to the ground.

The monkey of Aesop's fable, from which we have a famous metaphor, enjoyed more of the fruits of success with a cat.

Having roasted some chestnuts, the monkey discovered that they were so hot, they could not be touched; so it caught a cat and taught her to pull the chestnuts out of the red-hot coals!

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Child's Love.

You give me simple, tender love
And this I treasure much,
Youth's love you give with no far thought
In kiss or gentle touch.

Ah, but you will grow up, my child,
And I will miss all this;
As life's affairs absorb you I
Shall note it in your kiss.

So now I take the boon you give,
Enjoy it as I go,
More precious since a passing thing
It is, and this I know.

A Farmer's Diary

Pedigreed Stock.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY GOOD Dutch neighbor's barn was warm and neat and had the lived-in smell of animals. Between high mows of scented clover hay, we crossed to a box stall, where stood a mighty stallion.

Beneath his sleek, smooth coat, the powerful muscles rippled. His huge, well-proportioned body towered on legs like pillars. His hoofs sank deep into the straw. Beside his show of strength, a man seemed a mere pygmy. He thrust his velvet nose out through the bars and wanted petting.

"Is he always so gentle?" I asked.

"Vell, yes, indeed. . . . see how still he stands. He has won the blue ribbon several times already. I take him to the fair," he said.

He gave the horse a little apple from his pocket.

I admired the great animal, spoke of his high-arched neck, his beautiful chestnut mane and tail. "You love horses, I can see," said I. "I like good stock," he told me. "Come . . . look here."

We went across the barn floor to another compartment. There, in an airy stall, we saw four rosy-tan calves. Three of them were heifers, with shy, demure brown eyes; the other was a thick-necked rolypoly little bull, who put down his head, rolled saucy eyes, and arched his tail in frisky high spirits.

"Just a month old, they are," my neighbor said.

"But they're so large!" I exclaimed. "And aren't they lively! I haven't seen such a handsome bunch of calves anywhere."

"Brown Swiss are not so common," said the owner. "And of course these are pedigreed stock . . . an Alpine cow is quite an eyeful, anyhow, huh?"

I agreed with him. The mother cows which I saw in this farmer's pasture, were huge brown animals, among the finest milk producers on the hoof. He keeps just five, but averages thirty gallons of milk a day.

Listen, World!

Don't Try to Forget Your Sorrows.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO THEY'RE telling you to forget, are they? Yes, that's the advice the World always gives when a fellow's in trouble.

PERHAPS YOU'VE HAD A HEART-BREAKING SORROW. "Oh, how dreadful!" they all cry. "How perfectly awful! But believe me, my dear, you must forget it . . . put it out of your mind . . . refuse to brood over it. You'll go mad if you don't! You'll just have to force yourself to find some new interests, to laugh . . . play . . . travel, if you can. I know it seems impossible now but you must, you really MUST FORGET."

OR YOU'VE GOTTEN INTO A JAM . . . MADE SOME TRAGIC BLUNDER. And, of course, you're sick with remorse . . . frantic to get away from the jeers and sneers and snickers. "That's right," say your friends. "You should get away. Go some place where nobody knows you . . . where nothing can remind you . . . WHERE YOU CAN FORGET."

OR YOU MAY HAVE SOMETHING EVEN HARDER TO BEAR THAN GRIEF OR HUMILIATION . . . SOME NAGGING RESENTMENT OR OLD HATE WHICH HAS WARPED YOUR LIFE FOR YEARS, UNTIL YOU CAN SEE NOTHING, FEEL NOTHING BUT YOUR OWN BLACK BURDEN. Then from all sides comes the advice—

"There's just one thing to do and that is—FORGET IT. You've got to get this thing out of your system. Thinking of it . . . turning it over and over won't help. You'll only be the more sour. So make a clean cut of it . . . lock the door and throw away the key . . . FORGET!"

Heartbreak . . . Humiliation . . . HURT and HATE . . . the World has one cure for them all—FORGETFULNESS. Don't think about them—FORGET. At first, that may seem the only way, the intelligent, well-bred, dignified way to meet our losses and failures. But it isn't! For those who have the courage to take it, there's a wiser way . . . a nobler and far more profitable way. And that is—?

DON'T TRY TO FORGET YOUR BITTER MEMORIES.

DON'T TRY TO SEAL THEM IN YOUR HEART.

UNCOVER THEM! ADMIT THEM! SHARE THEM!

USE YOUR HURT TO HEAL ANOTHER'S—AND DRAIN THE POISON FROM YOUR OWN!

Half of your misery lies in the feeling of alone-ness. A little while ago, you were part of the living, laughing world. Now you are suddenly shut away by a bleak, blank wall . . . shut in alone with your wailing grief, your searing shame, your nagging obsession.

BUT YOU NEED NOT STAY SHUT IN ALONE! Beyond that wall, out in the world, there are thousands who are suffering just such grief, just such shame. Once you could not have understood their agony but now you can. Now, if you will, your eyes may open to a new understanding . . . your heart may warm to a new sympathy. Just by saying, "I, too, lost my darling! . . . just by confessing, "I, too, once made a dreadful mistake!" Just by admitting, "I, too, once harbored a secret madness of hate," you can break down your wall . . . you can break the seals to that other life . . . you can find blessed comfort for the pain within yourself.

DON'T TRY TO FORGET! Don't waste or lock away any part of your existence. There is no experience, however harsh, which canot be used to broaden and enrich your own life . . . and heal some other's—IF YOU WILL SHARE.

DARE TO LIVE! DARE TO REMEMBER! DARE TO SHARE!

Share the shame and the pain as you would share the Holy Communion. "This is My body—broken for you . . . This is My blood . . . Eat . . . drink . . . remember—"

Out of the past, the blessed words come down, to show the way, the way to life — BY SHARING.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There is something terribly startling and awfully thrilling about a telegram. You never know what to expect. It may announce a death, or bring tidings of a wedding. They make you hold your breath a little, and you don't expel it until the envelope is ripped open and you read what's inside.

I get lots of telegrams. Everybody in New York gets telegrams because everybody sends them. And after awhile it gets to be like the cry of "wolf." For most of them are from press-agents. All press-agents send telegrams here. The psychology behind it is that you may forget a telephone call, or a note, or a letter, but not a telegram. A wire plunks into your imagination. It almost makes a sound, like throwing a rock from a height into a pool of water.

People send telegrams when they could communicate much more quickly with you by merely reaching for the telephone. But they don't want to say words into a telephone that probably would be forgotten. Maybe they think I'm absent-minded. It certainly looks that way. They telegraph information across the street. In such instances it would require at least 30 minutes for the wire to be delivered. But a call by phone, or even in person, would take only two minutes.

* * *

TODAY I received seven telegrams, two from people in the same block. One of them said: "Please kill story about —— —— Information incorrect." Five minutes after this wire was sent I was having lunch with its author, but he never mentioned it to me. It was on my desk when I got back.

Another one advised: "J. Carrol Naish arrived in New York from Hollywood today especially to sit in as an observer at the numbers racket trial."

Naish is an actor. His newest picture is "King of Alcatraz," in which he is a gangster, and this is what the telegram quotes Naish as saying:

"No actor can learn the traits of a gangster when neither actor or director has ever seen a gangster in action. There is only one way Hollywood can learn the facial expressions, character traits and vocabulary of the gangster and that is to study him when he is at his sharpest and best—in the court room.

* * *

FOR myself, I believe in being real—literally real. That is why I am here. The next time you see me on the screen as a gangster or a lawyer watch and you'll probably note that I have incorporated in my technique many of the things I expect to learn while sitting as an observer at the trial."

All this was in the telegram. That is nearly a 200-word straight wire. It was sent from an office just three squares from where my desk is. A telephone call would have conveyed the information at practically no expense whatever, and in less time.

But, at that, the sender is correct. For here I am using that information, putting down one little word after another, just as delivered by a Western Union messenger boy at 10:59 this morning.

As for Naish making a cross-continental journey just to study the facial expressions of people alleged to be gangsters—well, your guess is as good as mine. Anyway, here is the story. I hope the alleged gangsters won't get sore.

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOLS FAILS TO HIT ESTIMATE

Prolonged Vacations And New Vaccination Order Blamed For Lower Attendance.

Prolonged vacations and refusal of parents to have their children vaccinated today had cut Mansfield public school enrollment below estimated figures, but school officials predicted the total attendance would exceed last year's within the next two weeks.

A marked gain over the 6,130 pupils who registered Wednesday, the first day of school, is expected when early term difficulties are solved.

An order of the board of education requiring all pupils and teachers to be vaccinated or show proof of immunity against smallpox brought a protest from a number of parents, but Supt. W. L. Miller said there would be no exceptions.

Ordered to Comply at Once.

Pupils who moved to Mansfield this year from other districts were granted a two weeks' period in which to be vaccinated, but others were ordered to comply immediately

Other pupils returning from vacations out of the city were expected to add more to the school enrollment.

Only two schools in the city showed enrollment gains on opening day over figures for mid-September last year. They were John Simpson junior high and Newman school The junior high school reported the largest increase, with an additional 47 pupils jammed into the already over-crowded West Fourth street school Total enrollment was set at 1,355, highest in the city. Newman school gained seven pupils.

The largest drop in enrollment was at the West Fifth street school where the registration fell from 320 last September to 266. The Woodland school enrollment remained the same at 106.

Enrollment in the other schools, with the opening day 1938 figures first, followed by the September, 1937, enrollments, are:

Bowman, 809, 838, Brinkerhoff, 246, 262; Carpenter, 253, 282, Bushnell, 263, 279; Hedges elementary, 388, 409; Hedges junior high, 280, 294; Newman, 409, 402; Prospect, 219, 259, Western avenue, 273, 278; Senior high school, 1,263, 1,270.

JUDGE STUDIES ACQUITTAL PLEA MADE FOR HINES

Indicates Indictment Against Tammany Leader In Racket Case Open To Dispute.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Judge Ferdinand Pecora today studied the motion of defense counsel to dismiss the charges against Tammany Leader James J. Hines, who is accused of having conspired with the "Dutch" Schultz mobsters to run the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket.

Court re-convened this afternoon when Judge Pecora will hear any further arguments which either Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey or Chief Counsel for the Defense Lloyd P. Stryker have to offer.

Judge Pecora gave Dewey quite a tussle when the nation's No. 1 rackets prosecutor argued against Stryker's motion to dismiss the indictment. The defense moved to throw out the first count, charging conspiracy, on the ground that the two-year statute of limitations operated against it, and moved to dismiss the other 12 counts on the grounds that the prosecution had failed to prove conspiracy to operate a lottery.

Lengthy Debate.

Pecora debated the issue with Dewey until 9 o'clock last night. This was long after Stryker had contended the indictment was "tricky" and "phony" and would not stand up in a court of law under close scrutiny. In reply, Dewey made a strong show of sincerity and definiteness as regards the facts in the case.

Judge Pecora raised the question of jurisdiction in the case by recalling the testimony of George Weinberg, henchman of Schultz, that the policy banks moved to New Jersey in 1935 and remained there, and that Weinberg himself quit the business in 1936.

It was Stryker's contention that the statute of limitations obliges Dewey to show that Hines had been a party to overt acts after May 24, 1936. He insisted Dewey had not done this. He maintained that the Schultz policy racket ended when "Dutch" Schultz was shot to death in a Newark chophouse on Oct. 23, 1935. Hines was arrested on May 24, 1938.

Judge Pecora and Dewey battled that point out at times heatedly and in great detail long after most spectators had left the courtroom. Pecora said he would welcome any comment from either prosecution or defense inasmuch as it was up to him to make the decision.

The issue seemed pretty much in doubt when the problem was put over until this afternoon. Judge Pecora indicated his mind was open on the entire question but he left no doubt there were a lot of things in the indictment that were wide open to dispute.

Like It Or Leave, Judge Orders In Apartment Fracas

CINCINNATI —(INS)— No matter how much 78-year-old Thomas Preifer and his family dislike the apartment house erected next door to their home, they've got to put up with it or Judge Dennis J. Ryan, of the Hamilton common pleas court, says they will be evicted.

The order came as Judge Ryan fined Priefer $25 and costs for violating an injunction by expressing their disapproval of the apartment in a unique manner. The apartment owner charged that Priefer:

Put a radio in his window so that it blared into the apartment building, left lights burning so that they shone in the windows, used mirrors to flash sun rays into the structure, peered in at their neighbors with opera glasses, rattled pans and beat on buckets, and were always in sight whenever a young lady resident's escort was departing.

State Highway Patrolman L. D. Alexander said the accident occurred 190 feet east of Trimble road and that the preliminary investigation revealed that both boys had been crushed against the radiator of the machine and then carried 80 feet before the wheels passed over them.

He said he had examined the brakes on the car and found them to be in "good working order."

"There were no tire marks on the pavement to indicate a sudden stop," he said.

Alexander added that examination of flasher lights on the rear of the bus, as required by law, showed they were also in working order.

Hissong told officers that he had entered Millsborough road from Trimble road and had noticed the approaching car "probably a half mile away."

"However, when I glanced into the rear vision mirror before opening the door for Lester to alight, I saw no machine behind the bus," he said.

Hissong pointed out that had he had a regular high school passenger on the bus the accident undoubtedly would never have happened.

He said that he usually turned west off Trimble road and let the Baker boy out, and proceeded west. The high school pupil was not on the bus yesterday, and the driver said he had turned east to take the child directly to his home.

14-Year Hunt for Fugitive Ends In Mansfield Arrest

A 14-year search for a New York fugitive by immigration authorities ended in Mansfield yesterday when Sheriff E. P. Long and federal officers arrested George Grama, 55, of 104 Lewis avenue.

Grama, who had lived in Mansfield for 10 years under the name of Philip Hubert, was held in the county jail today for immigration authorities who will take him to Youngstown for a hearing.

A native of Rumania, Grama is wanted on a Mann act charge, federal officers said. They indicated he probably would be deported to Rumania.

Sheriff Long said Grama forfeited a $1,000 bond in New York in 1924 after he was arraigned on the morals charge. He left the state and authorities had no information about him until recently when they received a tip that he was living in Mansfield, the sheriff said.

Grama is being held here without bond, and Sheriff Long said it might be several days before the immigration authorities came after him.

CITES HANDICAP JAPANESE FACE

Kiwanis Speaker Says Nation Hopes To Overcome Crowded Condition By Invasion.

Although explaining he was not in sympathy with Japan's invasion in China, Thoburn T. Brumbaugh, director of the Wesley Foundation in Japan, cited before members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon yesterday the handicaps which the Japanese are attempting to overcome.

Brumbaugh who had spent 14 years in the Orient and who is now visiting his home in Greenville on a vacation, said that it was necessary for Japan to seek new frontiers due to the crowded living conditions.

He compared Japan's population with that of the state of Ohio which he said had approximately the same area, but had far less agriculture land.

"This was the reason that they have turned aggressor on China, which is no more than several other foreign nations have done within the past few years in order to gain more area for their people," Brumbaugh said.

He termed the European and Far East situation as one of "dynamite" that might explode anytime.

He warned that the United States should maintain an open door to the Far East in order to guard against being drawn into any entanglements of a similar nature that might cause war.

BEWARE!

When Soap Suds Die!

Glasses Sparkle like new

Water intended for cleaning clogged with thousands of soap curds. The cause of dull grey-looking clothes. Foggy glassware. Dull china.

* * *

White things at their whitest, colors bloom clear and bright, dishes gleam again when you use CLIMALENE. The famous grease-dissolving cleanser. Use only ½ the soap. Yet suds always stand up!

* * *

● Take care when the soap suds in the washtub, washer or dishpan fade away. A sad experience is just ahead.

All the cleaning power in the grey-looking water that remains has been destroyed. It's greasy throughout. Cluttered with thousands of soap curds!

Chances are your fine things, delicate lingerie and colored clothes will come from the washing with a dingy dull look . . . your glassware foggy . . . china with a dull cast. No matter how carefully you work.

Avoid such disappointments with CLIMALENE. Not a soap. It's the nation's largest selling water-softening cleanser. You sprinkle it in cleaning water, a teaspoon or two. Before the soap goes in. It prepares water (hard or soft) for the soap. Thus you add only ½ the soap formerly needed. You'll have instant suds . . . constant, full strength, cleansing suds. Suds that never go flat!

Note the sparkle on glassware . . . the gleam on china . . . note the silver, free from all tarnish and stain.

And what a wash! White things at their whitest, colors fresh, lovely, unfaded. You'll see a new standard of cleanliness.

Consider that half the soap works twice as well with CLIMALENE in the water. That CLIMALENE dissolves grease, dirt and grime instantly—with complete safety! That it renews woodwork, tiles and flooring to a fresh brightness, without soap.

Then try CLIMALENE today! Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages The Climalene Company, Canton, Ohio.

STORK DERBY IN FRANCE HARD HIT

Increase Of Size Of Families Pares Cash 'Prizes.'

PARIS—(AP)—Financial reverses and the increasing size of French families have forced the Prix Cognac-Jay committee to cut their 90 prizes of 25,000 francs down to 20,000 francs

The prizes, plus one hundred others of 10,000 each, go to families in which the husband is not more than 35 years old and has at least five children to support.

The endowment fund, a sort of French "stork derby," was established in 1919 by a wealthy department store owner.

CITY BUYS AIR COMPRESSOR ON SECOND LOW BID

The city board of control today announced that it had awarded to the Ingersoll-Rand company of New York the contract for an air compressor to be used by the street department on the firm's bid of $1,277.50.

The Ingersoll-Rand company, one of six bidders, was $53 higher than the lowest bidder, the Davey Air Compressor company of Kent, headed by Gov. Martin L. Davey, which submitted an offer of $1,224.

The contract was awarded after the city had advertised for bids the second time. All the first bids were rejected by the board when the Davey company underbid the other five firms but failed to accompany its bid with check on a Mansfield bank as required in the specifications.

Considered 'Better Buy.'

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said the Ingersoll-Rand equipment was selected because the board, which is comprised of Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, had considered the nationally known product a better buy even though it cost $53 more.

The contract calls for the delivery of a mobile unit mounted on skids capable of driving two air hammers. Hunter said the firm promised delivery in Mansfield Monday.

Other bidders on the machine were the Hughes Supply company, $1,640; The Automotive Supply company, $1,665; the Charles Ingersoll company, $1,475, and the Finn Equipment company, whose bid was rejected because it listed used equipment.

BUSES TO CARRY 300,000 OHIO CHILDREN TO SCHOOL THIS FALL

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — There'll be no wading through snowdrifts to class for approximately a quarter of Ohio's 1,300,000 elementary and high school students this winter.

C. D. Hutchins, director of school transportation, has estimated that about 300,000 passengers would make daily use of Ohio's 7,700 school buses.

"Buses this fall will be in better shape than ever," Hutchins asserted. "During the summer 1,400 obsolete models were replaced at a cost of approximately $250,000."

Bus specifications approved by the state department of education this year call for all-steel bodies, safety seats, improved lighting and outside gasoline tanks.

The volume of transportation has increased steadily in recent years, Hutchins said, due to the closing of one-room schools and resultant consolidations, and because of traffic hazards prevalent in urban areas. In several large cities children are taken to school by bus to avoid dangerous intersections, although actual hauls are comparatively short.

At present, Hutchins added, Ohio pays about $6,000,000 a year for school transportation — more than any other state in the union. Last year only North Carolina carried more pupils by bus.

To improve the quality of drivers, the state this summer recommended that all applicants be subjected to physical examinations, be licensed chauffeurs and holders of qualified Red Cross first aid certificates.

LEG FRACTURED

BUTLER—Mrs. E. E. Heininger suffered a fracture of her right leg above the ankle Sunday evening when her foot twisted on a stairstep at the V. G. Ullman home here.

One of a party of guests who had just witnessed the showing of several films of movies at the Ullman home, Mrs. Heininger was descending the stairs when her ankle twisted and the bone snapped.

She was removed to her home in an ambulance where the fracture was reduced.

AUNT JENNY SAYS! LET'S EAT CAKE THIS WEEK

New 3-way recipe makes 3 delicious cakes

—so easy to mix with Spry

CELEBRATE—make all three cakes—have cake every day this week and begin today! Follow these new easy Spry recipes. See if the most expensive cake shortening ever gave you such light, delicate cakes—such smooth, creamy frostings—as pure ALL-vegetable Spry does.

Go to your grocer now. He is featuring all ingredients needed for these cakes. Get a 3-lb. can of Spry at least. Do all your baking and frying the Spry way. Pastry will be flakier, more tender; fried foods crisper, tastier and so digestible a child can eat them. Try Spry today!

In 3-lb., 1-lb. cans. Also in big 6-lb. family size

Spry The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening TRIPLE-CREAMED!

MASTER CAKE RECIPE

½ cup Spry, 2 eggs, unbeaten, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted flour, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup milk

Combine Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. (You'll marvel how quickly it's done with triple-creamed Spry!)

Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add baking powder to flour and sift 3 times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth.

Pour batter into two 8-inch layer pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Spread Chocolate Peanut Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

Cup Cakes. Bake in greased cup-cake pans in hot oven (425° F.) 20 minutes. Frost with Golden Coconut Frosting. Makes 2 dozen small cakes.

Spice Cake. Add 1 teaspoon cinnamon in creaming Spry with sugar. Bake in greased 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan in moderate oven (350° F.) 55 minutes. Frost with Spicy Raisin Frosting.

MASTER FROSTING RECIPE

1. Chocolate Peanut Frosting

2 tablespoons Spry, 2 ounces chocolate, melted, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons scalded milk (about), 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup peanuts, chopped and toasted, 2¾ cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine Spry, butter, vanilla and salt and blend. (Spry gives your frosting extra creaminess, helps keep it moist.) Beat in ½ cup sugar. Add melted chocolate and blend. Add hot milk, alternately with remaining sugar, beating well after each addition. Add only enough milk to make a nice spreading consistency. Add peanuts.

Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 8-inch layers.

2. Golden Coconut Frosting. Omit vanilla, chocolate and peanuts. Add ½ teaspoon grated orange rind to Spry mixture. Spread on tops of cup cakes. Top with 1 cup coconut rubbed with ½ teaspoon grated orange rind. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of 2 dozen small cup cakes.

3. Spicy Raisin Frosting. Omit chocolate and peanuts. Add ½ teaspoon cinnamon and ½ cup chopped raisins. Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of 8 x 8 x 2-inch cake.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

State Officials Study Two $30-A-Week Pension Plans

BACKERS SEEK APPROVAL BY OHIO'S VOTERS

Clevelanders Submit Plans For Unemployed Over 50, Small Wage Earners.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Thirty dollars a week for all unemployed persons over 50 years old, or for persons earning $30 a week or less is the crux of two pension plans which Cleveland groups would have written into the Ohio constitution and which were being studied by state officials today.

The first plan, filed with Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy for certification of the summary, is the proposal of Dr. Frank H. Fagan, Cleveland, who advances himself as one of the administrators of the proposed act.

The administrator of the act would have printed "retirement compensation warrants" and "warrant redemption stamps." Warrants would be of $1 denomination and redemption stamps two cents each to be issued in quantities sufficient to provide for the warrant redemption requirements of the act.

Redeemed by State.

One stamp would be affixed to a warrant each Thursday for 52 weeks and the $1 warrant then would be redeemed by the state for the payment of any licenses, taxes, fees, royalties, and debts or obligations of every kind by persons eligible to share in the pension plan.

Payments would be computed on the basis of average prices of consumer goods and rentals, which prevailed in 1937 and the number of warrants would fluctuate with price levels.

The second plan, also certified by Duffy, was drawn up by the General Welfare League of Ohio, Cleveland, and unlike Fagan's plan, would have the act administered by the state treasurer until the next general election after its adoption.

Fagan's proposal would come before the electorate as a constitutional amendment in 1939, while that of the General Welfare league would be on the ballot in 1940. The latter plan sets an age minimum of 57, seven years later than the eligibility requirement under Fagan's proposal.

The Fagan plan would have the act administered by one of three men, whom he named, to be appointed by the governor. The appointee would administer the act until 1942 when the administrator would be elected.

The administrator would be paid $7,800 annually in pension warrants, while four assistants would receive $7,280 in warrants. Besides naming himself as a possible appointee, Fagan named Robert E. Kingsley, Mentor, and Joseph Bernon, Cleveland Heights.

The summer White House announced suddenly last night that Mr. Roosevelt would entrain tonight for Rochester, to be present during the gastric operation Monday. Mrs. Roosevelt already is in Rochester and James' wife, Betsy, was scheduled to arrive there today.

Before leaving Hyde Park, the president arranged to talk with Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.) and Gerard Swope of the General Electric company.

News reports from Rochester have said that James' gastric trouble was common in persons of an energetic temperament and that previous treatments had failed to remedy it. An operation was decided upon earlier this week and James now is going pre-operative treatment.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield high school football followers said some nice things about the nifty Shelby scoreboard, so a recent graduating class presented a duplicate to the school. A Newark fan then got a look at the Mansfield board. He thought it was quite the thing, told Newark athletic officials about it and they came here the other day to give the board the "once over." Now it looks like that school will get a duplicate of the Mansfield board for Newark officials took a fancy to it.

If Bill Sawhill, 409 West Fourth street, had not known his sports personalities, Mansfield probably would never have known that it was host to one of the nation's greatest tennis players Wednesday night. The net star was Ellsworth Vines, who, with a companion, stayed at the Sawhill tourist home. Bill identified the name on the register after Vines had retired and a look at the famous guest the next morning and the tennis racquets in the car convinced him he was right. Vines was en route to Pittsburgh for an appearance.

Freeman, as justice of the peace of the Arizona town just across the border from California, has married more screen celebrities than any other person, among them Norma Shearer, Gloria Swanson, Richard Dix, John Gilbert, Loretta Young, Mary Astor, Stuart Erwin and June Collyer, and Aimee Semple McPherson. He retired a year ago from the office.

Senate Probers Hear Federal Workers Friendly To George Given Dismissals.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign expenditures committee took a look today at Georgia's battle after criticizing Democratic campaign tactics in Kentucky and Maryland.

Committee agents had been asked to investigate reports that federal officials friendly to Senator Walter George were dismissed for supporting him, and to inquire into charges of registration irregularities in some Georgia counties.

The Maryland and Georgia primaries will take place next week, but the Kentucky senatorial fight is over. Senate Leader Barkley defeated Gov. A. B. Chandler for Democratic renomination.

The committee notified the social security board and the bureau of public roads last night that it had evidence showing virtual assessment of $71,543 from social security and highway employes to help finance Chandler's campaign.

The committee wrote WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins that with respect to political activity in order to air Barkley's cause. It charged them with directing a political canvass of relief workers and with other improper procedure.

BOATS CONVEY THOUSANDS TO PERRY VICTORY CELEBRATION

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY—Thousands of school children journeyed by boat today to the Commodore Oliver H. Perry monument at Put-In-Bay for the opening of a three-day celebration commemorating the 125th anniversary of Perry's victory over the British in the battle of Lake Erie.

Brig. Gen. W. K. Naylor, commander of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, and Congressman-at-Large John McSweeney of Wooster, were speakers at afternoon ceremonies.

Historic Put-In-Bay, like Sandusky, was festooned with flags and bunting for the anniversary program, sponsored by the federal government.

Congressman Dow Harter of Akron, O., chairman of the celebration commsision, spoke last night at a banquet held in connection with Lorain's observance of the occasion.

Harter compared Europe's present frontiers, bristling with armaments, to the United States-Canadian line where, he said, "the feeling is entirely different . . . with over 3,000 miles of border line unguarded for a century and a quarter."

Congressman Dudley White of Norwalk, Congressman William Thom of Canton, and Congressman McSweeney also addressed the Lorain assembly. A parade there was witnessed by between 15,000 and 20,000 spectators. Marching units of Canadian lodges participated.

Sandusky will be the scene of a patriotic songfest, a parade and a boat display tonight. Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler will speak at Put-In-Bay tomorrow.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes will formally dedicate the Perry shaft and surrounding grounds Sunday as part of the national parks system.

CLUNG TO BOAT IN FRISCO BAY FOR 72 HOURS

Only Survivor Relates How Companions Dropped One By One To Deaths.

(By Associated Press)

OAKLAND, Calif.—Holger Nelson, only survivor of a sailboat tragedy, described today 72 agonized hours in which four companions dropped, one by one, from the wreckage almost within shouting distance of shore in San Francisco bay.

Near death from exposure, Nelson was found yesterday clinging to the overturned craft only two miles from the San Mateo-Hayward bridge which spans the lower bay.

Through parched lips he asked for water, then collapsed.

Today from a hospital he said he watched helplessly as his companions slid off into the water, and death.

"I couldn't do anything but hang on with cold, numb fingers," he said.

Squall Snaps Mast.

Nelson and the four other ycuths, Stanley Nordstrom, 18, Floyd Hatley, Howard Larsen and Everett Cole, left Alameda Sunday to sail to Paradise Cove, a northern arm of the bay.

Nelson said everything went well until Monday. Then a sudden squall snapped the mast and the boat capsized.

"We were all overboard," said Nelson. "We each grabbed for a rail and hung on after failing to right the boat. . . .

"We could see automobiles speeding across the bridge," said Nelson. "Other boats were sailing near the shore. But none saw us and we never had a chance to start swimming for it.

"Larsen and Hatley first showed signs of the strain. I managed to sleep a little Monday night. When I awakened Larsen and Hatley were gone.

"I thought the rest of us would lose our minds. We tried to comfort each other. Tuesday was a repetition of Monday afternoon and Monday night, with the three of us growing weaker.

"That night Cole lost his hold and dropped from sight When Wednesday dawned only Nordstrom and I remained.

"Nordstrom climbed out on the broken mast. I must have lost my head several times during the day. Once I recall seeing Nordstrom lying face up on the water, with a rope around his neck keeping him tied to the mast.

"Then a huge swell struck us and Nordstrom sank."

Several hours after Nelson's rescue, searchers reported finding Nordstrom's body in the rigging of the derelict.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Americans Owe Nothing to Anyone for Contributions to Culture of Life

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Another twinge in the neck incidental to all discussions of this country's relations with other peoples in the recurrent bushwah about America's debt to this or that race or nation for its contributions to American literature, science and art.

This country doesn't owe any race or nation anything for any such contributions. Those which we have received and put to use have been paid for, and more, by American inventions, and many others which are talked up so highly were unsuitable to our nature and have been kicking around in the drawer like so many initialed belt buckles.

Moreover, those which we did receive such as Shakespeare and the radio, our laws and liberties, were not intended as altruistic contributions to us any more than the electric light, the telephone and telegraph were intended as contributions to the peoples of foreign lands. We took something from them. They got more in return.

* * *

You walk down the street today and ask a thousand people to identify Giuseppe Verdi and tell you something he did or hum you a bar thereof, and not more than eight will even know what you are talking about. A slightly higher proportion may be able to remember having heard of Dante and a book with a lot of hell-fire illustrations, but in the main this country favors home-talent music and poetry.

Our songs are the Stephen Foster songs, plus "The Banks of the Wabash" and the songs of Irving Berlin, and that school. Our favorite poetry is home grown, and even if our best artists have gone abroad to study they are not our favorite artists, as our best artists often observe with a trace of pique.

* * *

Even our profanity is so distinctly native that Rudyard Kipling, who had messed with British Tommies recruiting from the slums of London, was fascinated by the shocking force and originality of a phrase which he heard on the docks in Seattle.

And just as a rap on the knuckles of anyone who here attempts to reach out and claim the works of Irving Berlin as a Jewish contribution to American art let it be understood that there is a catch in such claims. Berlin is an American who does his stuff as an American, and anyone who claims his works as Jewish works must be prepared to accept the works of Dixie Davis as Jewish works, too.

Similarly, if the creditable works of Americans of Italian or German, Irish or whatever other birth or descent be claimed as contributions by the homeland to American civilization, then the discreditable acts of others of the same birth or strain must be accepted, too.

* * *

That wouldn't be so hot. In fact, whenever anyone takes some foreign-minded, hands-across-the-sea American at his word and offers to award full credit for all achievements, the bad as well as the good, which stand against the names of members of any particular group, the answer to that is a shrill, piercing scream of outrage. The bad works are always the result of bad American environment, and are to be charged against the individual miscreants as Americans. But the good works are foreign or racial contributions to American literature, science and art.

With no exceptions worth considering, all our immigrants came to the United States with no high-minded intention to contribute anything but merely to escape the degradation, poverty, wars, plagues and oppression of their native countries. They and their descendants have made many contributions, if you want to use a noble word inconsistent with the individual, personally ambitious motives which impelled them. But they contributed as Americans.

* * *

They were, they are Americans, and they wrought in the same invironment which is always offered as the excuse for bad conduct by others whose works it is desired to disown on behalf of various groups.

By this process the United States gets no credit for anything good produced by European refugees and their descendants, but full blame for everything for which there is reason to be ashamed. As though there never were any slums, ignorance or criminality in the old world.

There is too much accent on Shakespeare, too, as a contribution to the American something, when the fact is that an all-American named Gene Tunney was hooted in the streets as a preentious intellectual fop for boasting that he had dipped his bill into one of the Henrys and, contrary to American experience, hadn't gagged on the first line.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A million dollars is being spent to convince you that movies are your best entertainment.

All the movie studios are in on the big "educational" campaign designed to make you—and many others—come and see the new season's flickers. Stars, directors, writers, producers are preparing, by publicity man proxies, many nice little sermons on WHY you should come to the movies.

They're telling you that movies are educational; that movies are instructive; that movies are morally uplifting; that movies inspire high ideals; that movies are fine for bunions, corns, chilblains, yellow fever and ptomaine poisoning. A few of the sermons, of course, will stress that movies, in addition to their cure-all and cultural advantages, are also entertaining.

It's nice to have a million dollars spent. And I hope the campaign works so that all the producers and exhibitors can be happy again—even as happy as they were in the good old days when people flocked to the box-office through habit and came back again no matter what manner of celluloid tripe they had been served.

That will be fine. It will be finer if all these highly touted new flickers turn out to be as fine as they're supposed to be. And I don't doubt that many of them will. I've seen a few that can go down on anybody's must list right now.

* * *

On the other hand, I'm thinking like a great many other people that the best way to convince people about their "greatest entertainment" is to make the picture so goldarned entertaining that they can't deny it. Get a picture like that, sell it with showmanship, and the picture and the public will take care of the rest.

I'm thinking in particular about "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

There's a number that has had one of the smartest of exploitation and advertising campaigns. The campaign brought the people into the theaters, and the picture apparently has lived up to the campaign. I don't know when I've heard so much word-of-mouth advertising on a picture since "Snow White." In any gathering, on street cars, at railroad stations, on the street when people stop to chat, it's "Have you seen it?" or "I tried to get in but there wasn't a seat," or "Gee, it's a swell movie!"

And "Alexander's Ragtime Band" isn't educational—unless your education in Irving Berlin's music has been overlooked; it doesn't instruct you in anything; it isn't morally uplifting; and it doesn't cure anything — except boredom and the blues, sometimes known as the bots.

* * *

It used to be a trusty maxim of this business — "There's nothing wrong with the movie industry that good pictures can't cure." The present come-on-and-see campaign is inspired by a realization that something more is needed, some general stir-up of the old public enthusiasm for the screen. But back of it all, that old maxim still holds true.

Last spring when producers were wailing, there was joy to spare at Walt Disney's little plant because "Snow White" hadn't heard about a recession. Later on, the Warners had a grin because "Robin Hood" had hit a bull's eye with his trusty longbow. And "Alexander's Ragtime Band" is well on its way to prove the same thesis, that "Movies are your best entertainment."

Which they are, when they ENTERTAIN. I hope the emphasis will always be on that last word of the campaign slogan.

Tell Common Sense Fashion Tale

Fur coats for the winter of 1938 tell a fashion tale of common sense.

Familiar pelts have been processed in new ways to produce smart coats at little cost. Many of the new coats are cut on straight box lines almost long enough to meet the hemline of the short skirts—a practical silhouette which adapts itself both to casual and more formal clothes. Finally, prices have been cut approximately 25 per cent.

Skunk has come to the forefront this season and is being worked ("let-out" like mink) in collarless box coats and short jackets.

Black Persian lamb, caracul and Hudson seal are among the standard pelts that promise to be leaders. Brown Alaska seal and nutria also are in the picture.

The season's favorite utilitarian coat is longer than last year's, having been extended to within an inch or two of the dress hemline. Generally it is cut on fairly straight box lines, with modified square shoulders, a smooth small collar and simple straight sleeves. It has a comfortable wrapped look.

Designers expect the vogue for the princess coat to increase as the season advances.

At the left is a silky Hudson seal, cut on straight box lines with a small roll collar and bell sleeves. With it the model wears a dress and hat of grape wine. At the right is a black Persian lamb—still a top favorite—slim fitted with modified square shoulders. A smart touch is the Russian toque of the same fur.

D.A.R. CHAPTER PLANS PROGRAM FOR NEW YEAR

Jared Mansfield Group Combines Patriotic Education and Social Meetings for Its 1938-39 Chapter Program.

JARED MANSFIELD CHAPTER, Daughters of the American Revolution, has planned a program for the coming year that is nicely balanced with patriotic, educational and social programs. The year books for 1938-39 were issued this week.

While the Northwest district conference at Willard next Wednesday will serve as an opener for the fall program, the Mansfield program gets under way on Sept. 17 with a 6:30 o'clock dinner at Grace Episcopal church. This will be in observance of Constitution day, and will be a joint meeting with Constitution chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. The evening's address will be given by William Holsinger, state president of the men's organization.

At the Oct. 7th meeting, Mrs. Hobart Scattergood will give a paper on "Minute Biographies," and there will be a report of the district meeting. The November meeting, which is on the 4th of the month, will be talks and discussion of "National Defense Through Patriotic Education," with Mrs. H. L. Ackerman, state chairman of this committee, and Mrs. C. H. Henkel, chapter chairman, leading the discussion. Harold Duda, one of the boys who attended the Boys State at Columbus this summer, will give a report on this project to chapter members. The Boy State is a patriotic educational project.

On Dec. 2 there will be a Christmas program in charge of Mrs. Paul Eliot and Mrs. Mary Troll Anglin, a guest singer.

Mrs. H. L. Creveling will have a paper on "Free Land" at the Jan. 6th meeting and delegates will be elected for the state conference. Election of delegates to the national congress will take place at the following month's meeting on Feb. 3. Mrs. Dan C. Pennell, guest speaker, will talk on the approved schools, for which she is state chairman.

The annual birthday dinner, with a sealed program, will be given on March 3, and on April 7 there will be a dessert luncheon at the Women's Club. At this meeting Mrs. J. H. Bristor will talk on "The Advancement of American Music," and delegates will give a report on the state conference which is scheduled for March to be held in Toledo.

The election of officers for the following year will take place at the May meeting and the delegates to the national congress will report. The final meeting of the year will be a covered dish picnic at Mohican State park on June 14. This will be a sealed program in observance of Flag day.

Mrs. A. Crawford Tuttle is regent of the chapter this year, with Mrs. Stanley A. Richardson as vice regent. Other officers are: Mrs. W. P. Tempters For Hot Weather

(The Home Kitchen.)
By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THIS YEAR the "dog days" seem to be lasting longer and are more intense than ever, and so we are kept busy devising cooling drinks and edibles to tempt capricious appetites.

Here are some grand hot-weather dishes, tempting, nourishing and light. Brazil nut luncheon loaf leads the procession and is worthy of first place. It requires two cups diced, cooked potatoes, one sliced onion, one cup chopped Brazil nuts, sliced cucumbers, three-quarters cup mayonnaise, one-half pound ground, cooked ham; one teaspoon prepared mustard, sliced tomatoes, lettuce and one-quarter cup French dressing Marinate potatoes and onion in dressing for 30 minutes Add nuts and enough mayonnaise to moisten Mix well Pack half the potato salad in medium-sized bread pan. Mix ham with mustard and mayonnaise to moisten; spread over potato salad. Pack remaining potato salad over ham and chill mixture in refrigerator several hours Unmold on chop plate and garnish with sliced cucumbers, tomatoes and crisp lettuce.

Sardine-Spinach Entree.

Sardine-spinach entree is another nice luncheon dish. Ingredients include two pounds spinach, three tablespoons butter, one hard-boiled egg, salt, two cans smoked brislings, lemon and pepper Wash spinach thoroughly and cook in the water which adheres to leaves about 12 to 15 minutes Drain and season with salt, pepper and two tablespoons of the butter. Arrange on heat-proof platter. Slice egg and overlap slices on top of spinach mound. Arrange sardines over these and around sides Sprinkle with remaining butter, melted, and place under high boiler heat two to four minutes Garnish with lemon slices.

Banana Sandwich.

Frozen banana sandwich is just the thing when you have a "sweet tooth" in the family and want to do the right thing by him or her. It takes one and one-half cups whipping cream, two tablespoons confectioner's sugar, three-quarters teaspoon vanilla, one-eighth teaspoon salt, four ripe bananas, one egg white, lady fingers, sponge or plain cake and one tablespoon lemon juice. Whip one cup cream until it will form a peak but is not stiff. Add sugar, vanilla, lemon juice and salt. Fold in one thinly-sliced banana and then one egg white which has been beaten until stiff but not dry. Line bottom of refrigerator tray with lady fingers or thin cake slices placed close together. Fill tray three-quarters full with banana mixture. Cover with additional lady fingers or cake. Press cake down lightly into place. Freeze until firm. Slice about three-quarters-inch thick and serve with remaining bananas, sliced and one-third cream, whipped.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, September 10.

A DAY of rather perplexing problems or peculiar adventures may be read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. There seems to be an undercurrent of the subtle, secretive or even sinister that should be handled carefully.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of expansion and promise, although there may be very peculiar, intriguing or mysterious problems to confront and manipulate with tact and shrewdness. This subtle situation may concern merges, rings, political or foreign bodies, secret societies or other undercover contacts.

A child born on this day may be disposed to attain its ends by subtlety, tact, collusion or other undercover methods, although it may be friendly, responsible and have noble ideas and noble aspirations.

My Neighbor Says:

Grass should not be clipped late in the fall as the blades need to make as much reserve food material as possible for the following early spring growth.

Place pecan nuts in a pan, pour boiling water over them and let them stand in the water a little while then crack them, and the meats can be easily removed.

Always when tying children's shoes, tie string in bow first then the loops in a single knot. They will not then easily become untied

When preparing a meat loaf, have a slice or two of liver ground with the meat. This adds a delicious flavor.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

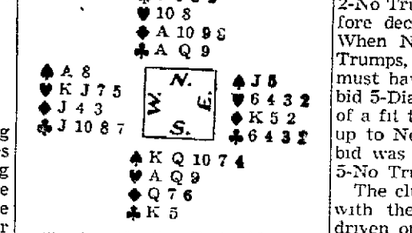
"The Authority on Authorities"

UNNECESSARY NEWS

HUNDREDS, yes many thousands of players, have a tendency nowadays to overdo the matter of showing a new suit after their partners open the bidding That is all very well and good if the partner has started with a minor suit or no trump. But if he bid a major suit and you hold four cards of it, telling him about another suit is usually news more valuable to the opponents in the later play than to your partner in the bidding Raise him, as a rule, to the justifiable height when you have four of his suit, unless, perhaps, you have stoppers in all other suits and so like no trump.



(Dealer. South Both sides vulnerable).

When South bid 1-Spade on this deal and North responded with 2-Diamonds, South was uncertain as to just what his next best response was He hated to jump the bid in spades because the suit was not too solid and thought 2-Spades or 2-No Trumps too weak He therefore decided on 3-No Trumps. When North then went to 4-No Trumps, South felt that North must have a very strong hand, so bid 5-Diamonds to show some sort of a fit there and put the problem up to North. When North's next bid was 5-Spades, South went to 5-No Trumps and North to six.

The club J was opened and won with the K The spade A was driven out and a diamond had to be given up later, so that the contract was down one

The whole trouble came from North's bad bid of 2-Diamonds, when holding four trumps His correct bid was 2-Spades and then South would have bid 4-Spades or perhaps chance 3-No Trumps if he felt like shooting. If North should then feel like inviting slam with 4-No Trumps, South should sign off at 5-Spades

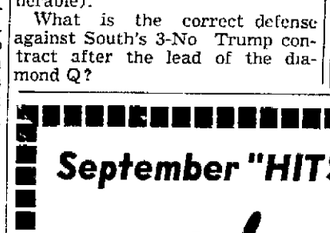
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. South East-West vulnerable).

What is the correct defense against South's 3-No Trump contract after the lead of the diamond Q?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

She seemed to me the loveliest and best of which human nature was capable. She was everything I wanted in a wife. But I wasn't making enough money to give her all that I felt a girl like that should have — a nice home in which she would stay and a generous allowance.

I was working day and night to get the raise which would make this possible.

One day I received a package of letters, postmarked from another state. I was amazed to recognize my fiancee's handwriting, and as they began "Dear Old Darling" and other terms of endearmen she had used to me, I thought they were some kind of joke and read them. They were crammed with expressions of endearment, and when I came to references of my divorce, I was genuinely puzzled, as I had never been married.

Still thinking they were some kind of joke, I put these letters away. That evening I received a visit from a lady who told me her husband was in love with my fiancee and that he was preparing to get a Mexican divorce and marry my girl. I could hardly credit this, but when I saw my fiance and demanded an explanation, she admitted everything. How can women be so false?

Disillusioned.

This girl is the exception rather than the rule. And while it may seem cold comfort at the moment, thank your lucky stars that you discovered what she was before it was too late, for she may have chucked the divorced man at the last minute and married you And I'm afraid you would be only one of a series to sign himself "Disillusioned."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Katherine waited a full second before answering Lillian's adjuration to give us the lowdown on her reason for saying that Olina would enjoy talking to Noel when he should arrive.

"I don't want to misjudge the girl," she said, "but she has mentioned Noel's name at least three times in the short time since she arrived. And there was no particular reason for it; she simply dragged him in by the hair, as it were. Once her mother heard her speak his name—she was too dopey the other times to notice anything—and I wish you could have seen the look those 'pansy eyes, the toast of European court circles' gave her daughter. Whatever Olina is planning—and I'm here to tell you I believe she's planning plenty—she'll do it only over her mother's dead body.

"Do you mean," I said, "that you think she's fallen in love with Noel again? She thought she was once before, you remember, until Princes Georges of Trees snapped out of his infatuation for Mary and taught her better."

"I wonder," Katherine said and stopped.

"No good hugging your intuitions to your buzzom," Lillian laughed. "Tell us lamb."

"It occured to me to wonder whether that affair between Olina and Georges was all romanticism, or if the eternal tug of the fitness of things, the 'call of the throne' wasn't responsible for it"

The same thought had occured to me several times since the winding up the tangled romances of "our romantic international quartet," as Harry Underwood always dubbed Mary, Noel, Olina and Georges, and I knew Lillian agreed when she said incisively:

"It doesn't matter what it was. It was most fortuitous, for it cleared the path for Mary and Noel. But—do you both remember the determined pursuit Olina gave Noel?"

"Do we?" Katherine and I ejaculated in unison.

"Then we can expect the same performance now, I think, Lillian said, "only it will be a more ruthless one—unconsciously ruthless, I grant you, born of the girl's loneliness and her tragic banishment from her old life—but still devoid of any sentiment, or any sense of fair play."

Something in me protested this severe judgment. I agreed with most of what my friends had said, but privately I thought they were too severe on Olina, and I was nearer to Mary than either of them. Thoughtless, Olina, was, I was sure, and predatory as most young things are But I did not believe she was as ruthless as they painted her, and that if she realized in what direction her fancy for Noel was carrying her, she could be depended on to conquer it.

But it was neither the time nor the place to enter a defense of Olina. We had to plan our campaign before Philip Veritzen should reach the farm, and there was little time for conference.

"I can forbid her going down saying I can take no risk of having Queen Olga know Mr. Veritzen is here"

Katherine spoke the words slowly, but Lillian's answer was brisk, decided.

"No don't do that We'll have to give old Phil some sort of sop, and that will be one greatly to his liking. Besides, I think it will be a good thing for the three of us to form ourselves into a sort of committee to determine just what our princess has up her sleeve."

"Heart heart" I said, for I was sure if I saw Noel and Olina together, I could determine the reaction of each to the other.

"Then Olina comes down," Lillian said. "But tell us, Katrina, will you be able to manage it without her royal mother suspecting what's up?"

"I am sure of it," Katherine said, smiling slightly to herself, and Lillian's eyes widened.

"Look here, you fraud," she said. "there's something you haven't spilled to us yet about this business. Is Olga really so weak that she can't be told of Philip's presence when he gets here?"

(Contnued tomorrow)

Skin Blemishes Require Treatment

Young women whose lives are made wretched by a complexion that is spotted with pimples may have discovered for themselves that the flaming points are more abundant in the winter season. There are two reasons for that. Because the appetite lessens in hot weather and one eats less meat, more fruits, green salads and vegetables, the digestive tract has less work to do, elimination is more normal. More water is taken into the sytem, there are opportunities for exercise. The second reason: exposure to strong sunlight acts as a curative measure Heat dries and heals the pustules. It softens the wax-like deposits that are tipped with atmospheric dust. Pimples and blackheads both can be banished by exposure to the ultra violet ray.

Skin specialists use lamps in treatment of acne, find them beneficial not only because they heal pimples and have a favorable effect upon blackheads, but because they destroy germs that produce the speckled state. Heat creates perspiration that washes the skin ducts.

Many a case of acne is made worse by experimental care. Every kind of a cream, lotion or powder that is casually recommended by friends or family is tried out. The physician who deals in diseases of the skin and scalp understands that the skin is not merely a protective covering but an organ that reflects the condition of the health. Constipation figures in 70 per cent of the cases of acne. By limiting the intake of sweets and starches, eating more green vegetables—especially spinach, asparagus, beet greens and lettuce—and by drinking fruit juices, it is often possible to correct that common trouble. The change for the better in the complexion may come along quickly.

Infection on the skin is spread by meddlesome fingers. When a pustule is opened, hands must be clean, fingers covered with gauze. Lancing these small boils is a bad practice. Unless there is a yellow point and light pressure a scar may result.

Scars, unless they have destroyed only the surface skin prove stubborn. Medical men have ways of making them less noticeable; even deep scars are sometimes obliterated. Results depend to a large extent upon the ability of the tissues to heal quickly. The moment a scar appears it should be bathed daily with hot water, then cold, the flesh dried gently, ointment of zinc oxide applied.

Acne treatment calls for the free use of a bland soap, and very little oil unless it is medicated and prescribed by the physcian.
